LAFOLLETTE RAPS SHIP SUBSIDY BILL AND RAIL MEASURE

Progressive Senators Return to Washington in Fighting Mood.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Senators Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Arthur Capper, of Kansas, returning here today in a fighting mood both tore into the proposed ship subsidy as a measure certain to greatly increase the tax burden under which the people are staggering, and denounced the Esch-Cummins transportation act as largely responsible for the economic evils from which the farmers are suffering.

Senator LaFollette, regarded now as the logical leader of the militant progressive group in the Senate to which the recent election made material accessions, breathed defiance at the administration as he served notice that he would be found battling side by side with Borah, of Idaho, Norris, of Nebraska, Ladd, of North Dakota and other progressive Republicans for the defeat of the subsidy bill and the repeal of the transportation act.

He expressed elation over the election of new progressive senators like Shipstead of Minnesota; Brookhart, of Iowa; and Frazier of North Dakota as a fitting climax to his triumphant victory in his own state.

He handled the ship subsidy with all the characteristic fiery condemnation of a legislative measure of which he strongly disapproves. He branded it as a proposal, (1) "to sell government owned and constructed ships to the shipping monopoly for ten cents on the dollar," (2) "to tax the people to pay the shipping monopoly a subsidy of millions of dollars a year for ten years to operate the ships and charge the public as high transportation rates as will satisfy its greed."

DEATH NATURAL SAYS MINISTER

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Examination of the body of Mrs. Clara Cowley, wealthy wife of the pastor of the First Congregational church at Solon Springs, Wis., will prove that she died from natural causes, her husband declared.

The body was exhumed from the Rose cemetery at Gary, Ind., and sent to Dr. William D. McNally of Chicago for examination, on request of William Bothwell, a son of Mrs. Cowley by her first marriage. The pastor, who was formerly stationed at Gary, and Mrs. Cowley were married only a few weeks before her death.

"My wife died from heart trouble and pneumonia," said Rev. Cowley. "It will be easy to prove that her death was natural, despite the veiled charges of my wife's relatives."

Let Government Control Industry In Time of War

Pershing Outlines Scheme Which Would Place All Factories Under Federal Control In Time of Warfare.

New York, Nov. 18.—Speaking before the Merchants' association of New York, General Pershing announced that national defense plans of the war department contemplate governmental control of the entire resources of the country under an "efficiency council or board of control."

According to these plans, General Pershing said, "the industrial and manufacturing institutions, agriculture and transportation would be under government control while the personnel pertaining to all of them would be mustered into the service as are those that are called to the colors. An efficiency council, or board of control, conforming to our experience in the war, would then be placed in charge of all resources with authority to make such disposition of them as would best promote the success of the nation in war."

"The initial organization and the system to be adopted should soon be in such tangible form that the personnel could be selected and organized in readiness to take up their duties when needed."

"It is the duty of the war department to study the general needs of the country in both men and material to meet the exigencies of war. The conclusions place certain obligations upon the army personnel, in addition to its duty as an arm of the administration, from a consideration of which the strength of the army can be determined. But our recommendations often go unheeded, partly because those who hold the purse strings will not understand, and partly because in the past it has been a more or less popular thing to cry out against the army as being militaristic or as dangerous to the liberties of the people, or some such ridiculous plea that might appeal to the ignorant voter."

"It is regrettable that a greater number of business men with vision do not make the sacrifice and enter public life during peace and give their country the benefit of practical business experience in the management of both national and international affairs, instead of leaving those duties to the professional office seeker and the political soothsayer."

GOVERNOR DAVIS ISSUES THANKSGIVING MESSAGE

Columbus, Dec. 18.—Governor Davis, in a proclamation, asked the people of Ohio to duly observe Thursday, Nov. 30, as Thanksgiving day. Let us seek to improve the lot of those less fortunate than ourselves and strive for the betterment of conditions of humanity."

WANT FRENCH ARMY TO HELP BRITISH IN THE NEAR EAST

Lord Curzon Insists That Troops be Placed at England's Disposal.

Paris, Nov. 18.—Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, is insisting that Premier Poincare place the French army and navy at the disposal of the British to support the British in co-ordinate measures if the Turks balk at accepting the allied program in the Near East peace conference, both the Petit Parisien and Echo de Paris stated today.

Today's program of Anglo-French conversations called for a morning meeting of Premier Poincare and Lord Curzon, followed by luncheon at the foreign office and another conference during the afternoon.

Both Lord Curzon and Premier Poincare plan to depart for Lausanne Sunday morning.

Paris, Nov. 18.—On the eve of the Lausanne peace conference the chamber of deputies gave a vote of confidence to Premier Poincare.

The vote was 462 to 71. The entire chamber, excepting the extremists on both sides and the Communists, Socialists and Royalists, voted in favor of the government.

M. Poincare virtually gave notice that a final agreement on reparations must come out of the Brussels conference in December or France would take her own measures. He said categorically there could be no reduction of the French share of German reparations unless it was in the form of a transfer of part of Germany's debt to France to the creditors of France, and that there could be no moratorium without effective guarantees.

The allied powers through the council of ambassadors have informed Germany that all questions concerning the withdrawal of the military control commission in Germany have been suspended until the German government gives the fullest satisfaction for what are termed flagrant violations of the military clauses of the treaty of Versailles, committed during the past six months, and shows willingness to abide by the commission's instructions.

The note of the allies was sent after the receipt of a German communication on the subject, which was termed "insolent to a degree." In this communication Germany is said to have disregarded totally the long series of notes of complaint sent by the allies and to have declared that she was glad to learn the allies were about to end their military control and permit Germany to revert back to normal.

The latest allied note demands an apology and reparations for recent incidents at Passau and Stettin. In requesting an immediate reply the allies say their patience is about exhausted.

SUNDAY SCORES SINNERS SPEAKING TO AUDIENCE OF TWO THOUSAND SATURDAY

In an hour's time, a mass of surging humanity, never before equalled in one Xenia audience, numbering at least 2,000 people, crowded into the limited capacity of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and was given first hand information on the characteristics by which Evangelist "Billy" Sunday is known round the globe.

The balancing kick, the hand-megaphone, and the usual attack of the devil and his co-operators, were all demonstrated by the famous evangelist, who was welcomed by an audience that came from miles surrounding Xenia City to hear him.

"Billy," due to an engagement that limited his time, upset plans that were to have been carried out to meet him with members of the Xenia Ministerial Association, the O. S. and S. O. Home band, and the Boy Scouts, and escort him into this city. He arrived here before 10:00 o'clock.

"Hope, the Light of the World" was the thread that Sunday wove into a sermon, that began with derision of the abnormal man or woman who suicides, and scoring of wealth, fame, personal pleasure, free thinking and blasphemy, and ended with illustrations of poets, painters and writers, who have gained the wrong idea of God and His power to save.

With an introduction only long enough to give a personal tangible touch to his audience, Sunday swung into his fiery address, matchless on the part of any other evangelist or public speaker that had addressed Xenia audiences. He spoke of the invitations that he had received to talk at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphan Home, of this city, and expressed his interest in doing so, since he spent the years of his boyhood in a soldier's home in Iowa.

Candor, an outstanding Sunday characteristic was first evidenced, when the evangelist requested all mothers to take crying children out of the auditorium, because they don't understand me anyhow.

A word picture of a distorted man, who has lost the "pleasure of hope" was drawn by Sunday, who declared that the "man or woman, who sends a bullet crashing through their brain is not normal, and has lost the power of hope in God."

CLEMENCEAU'S VISIT RESULT OF SECRET TRUCE WITH POINCARE

'Tiger' Of France Arrives In America For 'Adventure'

Famous War Premier Hopes to Enlighten the United States On European Affairs and Cement Ties Of Friendship.

New York, Nov. 18.—Georges Clemenceau, aged French statesman and "war premier," who arrived here today from France, came to the United States as the result of a secret understanding with Premier Poincare on a mission to foster Franco-American relations for the ultimate salvation of France.

Clemenceau and Poincare had been bitter political enemies for 25 years. But under stress of the international crisis which threatens Europe they decided to get together and bury the hatchet for the good of their native country.

For nearly three years following the Paris peace conference Clemenceau has lived the life of a hermit. He has refused to reveal any of the secrets of the conference and even to defend his course during the negotiations. He has refrained from taking any part whatsoever in French public affairs.

As conditions grew from bad to worse owing to the problem of German reparations and the general political, financial and economic crisis of Europe, these two big statesmen—the most powerful in France—decided to put their personalities aside for future salvation of their country.

It was obvious that Clemenceau would have come to America as a simple French citizen rather than as an official of the French government. France could not officially plead her cause with the American people especially with an administration in power which is on record as opposing most of the things France stands for.

There was a marked absence of official attention when the great war premier embarked for America at Havre on armistice day. While all France was celebrating the armistice which Clemenceau, perhaps more than any other man, made possible, not even a subordinate official of the French government was at the dock to bid the fighting statesman good speed.

In America, however the situation was different. Ambassador Jusserand was master of ceremonies. He was the first to greet Clemenceau, welcoming him as a great compatriot. Clemenceau himself talked freely and wittily but he carefully refrained from giving any inkling of the real purpose of his visit.

"What is your message to the United States?" he was asked.

"I have a message and on Tuesday night at the Metropolitan Opera House, I will give it to you privately," he said.

Despite the unofficial character of the visit of the great Frenchman, the American government was officially represented on the reception committee, Robert Woods Bliss, assistant secretary of state, was among the first to get aboard the liner Paris to greet M. Clemenceau.

The Democratic faction of the American politics was liberally represented. The official reception committee consisted of Frank L. Polk, trusted adviser of Woodrow Wilson during the Paris peace conference, and under secretary of state in the Wilson administration.

New York, Nov. 18.—France's famous war premier, Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger," arrived here today for a series of addresses in the United States by which he hopes to enlighten Americans on European affairs and bind closer the ties of friendship between France and the United States.

At seven o'clock Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States accompanied by several attaches of the French embassy, at Washington, reached the battery and subsequently embarked upon a special tug to go down the bay to greet the famous old French statesman.

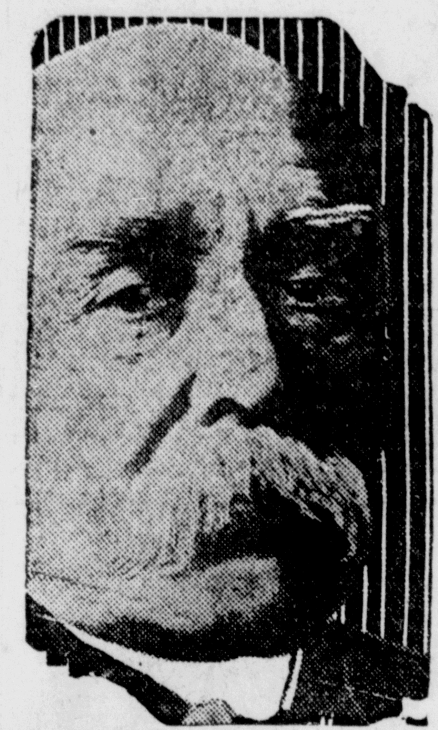

Colonel E. M. House, a member of the American peace delegation in Paris and Frank L. Polk former under secretary of state, at Washington, under President Woodrow Wilson, were also on the tug.

Many of the craft in the bay were dressed out in French flags and the French line pier was crowded with prominent persons, large numbers of whom carried the French tri-color or wore it upon their clothing.

Plans for the reception of the "Tiger" were singularly impressive in view of the fact that Clemenceau holds no official position and has not been in power at Paris for several years. He has retired from active politics.

Clemenceau is no stranger to the United States. He formerly taught French in a girl's school in Connecticut and at one time lived in this city. Wireless advices from the Paris as the reach port said that the former premier was greatly excited over the prospects of his tour and was in good health and high spirits.

During his stay in this city Clemenceau will be the guest of Charles Dana Gibson, the artist. It was planned that he should visit City Hall to get the official greetings of Mayor Hyman before going to the Gibson home.

GEORGES CLEMENCEAU

The gigantic French line steamship Paris, with M. Clemenceau on board passed Sandy Hook into New York harbor at 2:30 o'clock, but the vessel was detained at quarantine.

New York, Nov. 18.—Georges Clemenceau, aged French statesman and "war premier" who arrived here today from France, came to the United States as the result of a secret understanding with Premier Poincare on a mission to foster Franco-American relations for the ultimate salvation of France.

Clemenceau and Poincare had been bitter political enemies for 25 years. But under stress of the international crisis which threatens Europe they decided to get together and bury the hatchet for the good of their native country.

For nearly three years following the Paris peace conference Clemenceau has lived the life of a hermit. He has refused to reveal any of the secrets of the conference and even to defend his course during the negotiations. He has refrained from taking any part whatsoever in French public affairs.

As conditions grew from bad to worse, owing to the problem of German reparations and the general political, financial and economic crisis of Europe, these two big statesmen—the most powerful in France—decided to put their personalities aside for future salvation of their country.

It was obvious that Clemenceau would have come to America as a simple French citizen rather than as an official of the French government, France could not officially plead her cause with the American people especially with an administration in power which is on record as opposing most of the things France stands for.

There was a marked absence of official attention when the great war premier embarked for America at Havre on armistice day. While all France was celebrating the armistice which Clemenceau, perhaps more than any other man, made possible, not even a subordinate official of the French government was at the dock to bid the fighting statesman good speed.

In America, however the situation was different. Ambassador Jusserand was master of ceremonies. He was the first to greet Clemenceau, welcoming him as a great compatriot. Clemenceau himself talked freely and wittily but he carefully refrained from giving any inkling of the real purpose of his visit.

"What is your message to the United States?" he was asked.

"I have a message and on Tuesday night at the Metropolitan Opera House, I will give it to you privately," he said.

Despite the unofficial character of the visit of the great Frenchman, the American government was officially represented on the reception committee, Robert Woods Bliss, assistant secretary of state, was among the first to go aboard the liner Paris to greet M. Clemenceau.

The Democratic faction of the American politics was liberally represented. The official reception committee consisted of Frank L. Polk, trusted adviser of Woodrow Wilson during the Paris peace conference, and under secretary of state in the Wilson administration.

his statement Sunday declared, "There is only one hope, that of the word of God. There is only one hope to cheer, only one hope to dispel the gloom, that of the Christian hope of being saved, surcease for the heart with rest."

"The rich sigh as well as the poor," Sunday shouted, "you can build a fine home, to keep out the cold winter blasts, but you can't keep out sorrow."

"Be ready always to give answer," was the motto adopted by Sunday. In urging upon his hearers the power of repentance and deliverance by God, he attempted to express everything in the words of the English language, "but," like the old southerner who was asked for a confession at the church altar, said, "we can't tell in a million years what God does for us in one day."

"We reach out for everything God gives us, and never think of thanking God in return. The trouble is that the majority of we mortals think that God is only something that should be called for in trouble."

"All I do, like the work of God, is to tell you what to do. Don't you know that the whole world is going crazy looking for rest for the soul? We shift her on high and step on it."

"Is fame satisfying?" "No!" Sunday cited instances of men whose pens moved the entire world, who, through the lack of faith and God were miserable, and ended in destitution.

"If more men would go to the barber or the dentist more, their path to hope and heaven would be easier. I hate to see a man in a suit that looks like it was cut out by a cross-eyed tailor, or a woman going slouching around in a kimono or a Mother Hubbard, her hair up in curlers. The best dressed men you will find in the new testament, patterned in style after that of their Savior!"

"Don't get the idea that God loves the man that resembles a hedgehog—he likes men who boast of pride that will lead them forward not back." The course of Lady Hamilton, whose regal reign met with the adoration of England and the continent, who finally ended in the "snowdrifts of despair," was taken by Sunday, to

Famous War Premier Hopes to Enlighten the United States On European Affairs and Cement Ties Of Friendship.

New York, Nov. 18.—France's famous war premier, Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger," arrived here today for a series of addresses in the United States by which he hopes to enlighten Americans on European affairs and bind closer the ties of friendship between France and the United States.

At seven o'clock Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States accompanied by several attaches of the French embassy, at Washington, reached the battery and subsequently embarked upon a special tug to go down the bay to greet the famous old French statesman.

Colonel E. M. House, a member of the American peace delegation in Paris and Frank L. Polk former under secretary of state, at Washington, under President Woodrow Wilson, were also on the tug.

Many of the craft in the bay were dressed out in French flags and the French line pier was crowded with prominent persons, large numbers of whom carried the French tri-color or wore it upon their clothing.

Plans for the reception of the "Tiger" were singularly impressive in view of the fact that Clemenceau holds no official position and has not been in power at Paris for several years. He has retired from active politics.

Clemenceau is no stranger to the United States. He formerly taught French in a girl's school in Connecticut and at one time lived in this city. Wireless advices from the Paris as the reach port said that the former premier was greatly excited over the prospects of his tour and was in good health and high spirits.

During his stay in this city Clemenceau will be the guest of Charles Dana Gibson, the artist. It was planned that he should visit City Hall to get the official greetings of Mayor Hyman before going to the Gibson home.

Styles BY LENORE

While it is true that other colors have usurped the place that navy blue and black have so long held, neither of these colors has been entirely abandoned. Some houses are still using a great deal of black, though a compromise is often made by combining it with bright colors.

and navy blue is still considerably used, especially for street wear. In browns, which range from the somber seal shades to light caramel, the shade said to be most popular in Paris is a light tawny color with a lot of red in it. However, even there, black and dark blue are still "among those present" on the season's color card.

The trim-looking frock shown in the sketch today will look equally smart in any of the fashionable colors. It was shown by Lanvin recently, in dark blue duvetyne, with an exquisite bit of creamy shadow lace in a pleated frill high up around the neck, a charming setting for a youthful face. The bodice is not unlike a middy, with a deep upturn cuff that fits snugly around the hips.

BIG CROWD SEES CENTRAL HIGH WIN HOMECOMING GAME 17 TO 6

The lock-step shift, brain child of Coach Charley Moran, of Little Centre and used with astounding success against Harvard a few weeks ago, was transplanted from Southern soil to the dusty Fairground gridiron Friday afternoon, but there, far from its native surroundings, withered and died, while the Central High football team gleefully trampled on its remains and fittingly celebrated its "homecoming game" by soundly trouncing Washington C. H. High, exponents of the trick shift by the score of 17 to 6.

Something very near the play used at Centre was employed by Coach Warren Vannorsdall of the Fayette County tribe, but it repeatedly failed of its real purpose to disorganize the Xenia forward wall, although a pass used from the formation succeeded with amazing regularity.

The play was a revelation to the big homecoming crowd, largest of the season, and it first interested and later amused both sidelines and players. Too frequent employment of the trick, which wore off its novelty, worked to its own downfall, and as the twilight gathered in the closing moments of play, it greatly hindered and slowed up the attack of the visitors.

Fans saw Coach Earl Burnger's "Big Blue" team accomplish a rare achievement in grid annals Friday. For although Xenia came out on the long end of the score, the locals were short on everything else that go to make up the game, except the number of players. Washington made more first downs, completed more successful passes and was penalized less frequently and for fewer yards. Xenia did not take a first down until the third quarter, in spite of the fact that it had a ten point lead at the half.

Captain Don Currie and his mates began to show their real offensive talent in the second half, when they negotiated all of their first downs, three in the third and three in the fourth quarter. In the meantime the visitors piled up four first downs in the first quarter, two in second, one in the third and three in the fourth. Xenia attempted three passes in the first quarter, completing two for ten yards apiece, or a total of 20 yards, while two more were unsuccessful in the final session. The visitors completed four out of ten in the first quarter for 80 yards, two out of six, in the second quarter for 17 yards, one out of two in the third quarter for 12 yards and two out of seven in the final period for 39 yards, or a total of nine completed out of 27 attempted, for a total of 146 yards. Two of these passes were not actually completed, but the gains were allowed on fouls by Xenians, and these two donations contributed 31 yards to the total of 115 made by actual completion of overhead plays. Xenia was penalized 20 yards the length of a Washington pass, in the first quarter for tripping, received one five-yard off side penalty in the second quarter, one 15-yard pushing penalty and a five-yard off side penalty in the third quarter and one 5 yard penalty for touching a punt and one penalty of 11 yards for interfering with a man attempting to catch a pass in the fourth quarter, for a total of six penalties and 61 yards. Washington was penalized once in the first quarter for using hands on offense, 15 yards and again in the final quarter, five yards for offside play, or two penalties for 20 yards.

Xenia's line had its hands full with the heavy Washington forward wall and Washington's passers were always proctored from an attempt to smother, while the visiting backfield was always able to get away to a good start. Captain Baker and Larimer were towers of strength on the line, while Dellinger, the yearling full-back and Harris, the colored half, shone in the backfield. Foster, colored tackle and Clark, end, also performed well for the Vannorsdall assembly. Randall, Art Currie and Tom Hollencamp were offensive lights for the locals, while on the line, Don Currie, Yeakley, Zell, and Ballentyne.

In the second half, sparkled, Washburn and Cowan played well at the ends and Art Currie ran the team with the speed that signified his generalship against Greenfield last week. Hollencamp was especially good on off-tackle smashes and backing up the line, while Randall ran the ends well, but excelled particularly in defensive work, tackling deadily and blocking many passes. His exhibition was as good a high school one drop ever seen here. He kicked one drop kick from the field, and two for extra points after touchdowns, that were perfectly executed and had considerable carry. His punts too were pleasing. Standing five yards deep in his own end zone early in the game, the deerfoot booted the ball 82 yards, where the Washington quarterbacks was downed on his own 43 yard line.

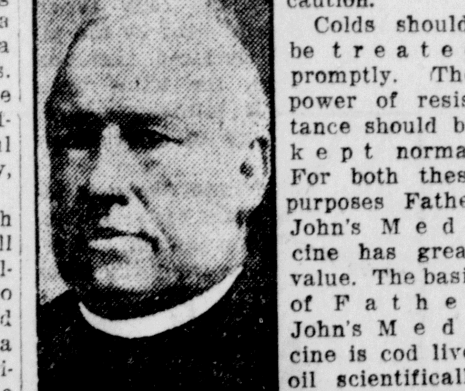

Yeakley kicked off to Harris to start the game, and he criss-crossed the oval to Baughn who was down on his own 27. Harris failed to gain twice on the lockstep comedy, but on the same formation Clark passed 20-yards to Harris. Baughn made three but Clark was stopped and the latter again passed to Harris for a 30 yard gain, to Xenia's 23 yard line. Dellinger made two and Harris passed to Dellinger for seven, Harris was stopped, and here "Squeek" Vannorsdall, attempted a drop kick from his own 27 that went wide.

Xenia took the ball on the 20. Hollencamp made one, and Randall was stopped. A bad pass resulted in a fumble by Randall and he lost 13 yards on the recovery. Standing in his own end zone he punted to Vannorsdall on Washington's 43. Two passes were incomplete, but a 20-yard gain was allowed on the second for tripping. Dellinger and Harris made another first down in three attempts, but Washington was penalized 15-yards when Harris used his hands illegally. A pass grounded, and Clark passed to Baker for ten yards. Another pass grounded and Baker punted to A. Currie on Xenia's 25. Woolary made eight, Hollencamp and Randall were stopped and Randall punted to Vannorsdall on Washington's 41, where he was spilled by Cowan. A pass grounded and another was intercepted by Yeakley, but the referee had blown the ball dead. Baker attempted to punt, but a bad pass from center made it necessary for him to throw the oval on his own 20. Woolary was stopped and Currie made one as the quarter ended. Randall made two and then Randall booted a dropkick.

GRIP THREATENS

IFLUENZA SEASON AT HAND
Take Every Precaution Now

This is the influenza season. A few cases have already made their appearance, and although doctors believe that the epidemic of the past few years may not appear this year, they urge the greatest caution.

Colds should be treated promptly. The power of resistance should be kept normal. For both these purposes Father John's Medicine has great value. The basis of Father John's Medicine is cod liver oil scientifically prepared with other ingredients in such a way that it makes new flesh and strength, soothes the breathing passages, and helps to drive off poisonous waste matter.

It does its work without narcotics or stimulants, so it is safe for children as well as older people.

from the 27 for the first blood of the game.

Yeakley kicked off to Harris, who returned 40 to Xenia's 49. Dellinger and Harris made a first down. Hollencamp knocked down a pass, but another one, Clark to Vannorsdall netted nine yards. Dellinger made another first down, but Harris and Dellinger were stopped in the next four attempts, and the ball went to Xenia on downs on her own 16-yard line. Randall made seven around right end, but Xenia was penalized five for off side play. Randall punted to Xenia 39. A pass grounded and Randall blocked another. Clark passed to Harris for eight on the third attempt, but Dellinger could not make it first down and it was Xenia's ball on the 31. After three unsuccessful attempts Randall punted 50-yards to Washington's 27. Dellinger made two and then Hollencamp intercepted a pass on the visitor's 33 and raced to the goal for Xenia's first touchdown. Randall drop-kicked the extra point.

Vannorsdall received Yeakley's kickoff on his own 29 and passed 12 yards to Harris as the half ended. Baker kicked off to Hollencamp on Xenia's 27, and Xenia was penalized 15 for pushing. Randall punted from goal line to Xenia's 45 and English. Baughn and Clark made a first down. Baughn made five, and Dellinger raced around left end for the visitors' only touchdown. Clark attempted a pass into the end zone for the extra point, that was incomplete.

Baker again kicked off to Hollencamp to return 25 yards to Xenia's 32. Unable to gain, Randall punted 40 yards, and Xenia was penalized five yards for touching the ball, to Washington's 46. Baker punted on the fourth down to Randall who returned 25 to Xenia's 46. Xenia was penalized five yards for offside, but A. Currie passed to Woolary for ten yards. Hollencamp made eight around left end, and Currie ran off tackle for 25-yards to Washington's 19. Randall was stopped and then made three. Currie passed ten yards to Cowan for another first down on the visitor's five yard line. Woolary and Currie could not gain as the quarter ended, and a pass into the end zone ended the threat when it was incomplete. Washington took the oval on the 20, and Harris made one. Randall blocked a pass and Baker punted 25 yards off-sides, it being Xenia's ball on Washington's 42. Hollencamp made eight off tackle, and Randall skirted right end for ten yards. Holton was stopped and Washington was penalized five yards for offside play. Currie made seven, and Hollencamp made six and fumbled. Don Currie recovered. Holton made two and then one, and then Randall on a trick formation raced around end for the second touch down. Randall also made the drop kick good for the extra point.

Don Currie kicked off to Vannorsdall on Washington's 32. Clark's pass to Flee for 11-yards was allowed on a Xenia foul. Another pass grounded, and then Clark passed to Harris for eight yards. Dellinger made it first down. Another pass was incomplete, and Clark passed to Harris for 11 yards. Dellinger added two, and Randall blocked a pass while two more grounded. Xenia took the ball on downs on the 40, Hollencamp made four, and A. Currie 12 around end. A pass was incomplete but Hollencamp made eight more off tackle as the half ended.

Washington is the fourth team to score on Xenia in two years, and

Today's Talk

The Eyes of Other People
Franklin once said this: "It is the eyes of other people that ruin us. If all but myself were blind, I should neither want a fine house nor fine furniture."
I sit in the lobby of a fine hotel. I watch the people come and go. Some are dressed elegantly and in the latest fashion. Some are dressed—that's all.

I watched these people in their attitude and manner. This lady whose silks rustle and smoothly sing their fashion song—I note that the eyes of all are fastened upon her. And she notes it, too! The fine clothes are becoming, for they are beautiful. They have been designed by an artist. But the eyes of other people are sapping the very worth of beauty that this work of art has created.

Live'd greatness is always placed ahead. "The eyes of other people" are never able to see that far!

"Take no thought for the morrow" has become one of the axioms of solid achievement.

Never mind the eyes of other people. They never are able to see the thing which you are able to see. We would all agree if that were possible. And that would mean stagnation, inertia and death in life.

Someone has said that no one is so blind as he will not see!

Your own vision is a thing both personal and sacred. It is an inheritance bound to the noblest tradition that trails you.

See with your own eyes. Let the eyes of other people wander and guess and speculate as they will.

And if there are to be any rewards, drink them in as earned.

No two eyes see the same. Remember that. And no eyes on earth are able to see as yours are able to see—for YOU!

The most refreshing spring in the entire garden of the soul is its eye's spring. Try to keep it bubbling with sparkling water.

Styles BY LENORE

While it is true that other colors have usurped the place that navy blue and black have so long held, neither of these colors has been entirely abandoned. Some houses are still using a great deal of black, though a compromise is often made by combining it with bright colors.

and navy blue is still considerably used, especially for street wear. In browns, which range from the somber seal shades to light caramel, the shade said to be most popular in Paris is a light tawny color with a lot of red in it. However, even there, black and dark blue are still "among those present" on the season's color card.

The trim-looking frock shown in the sketch today will look equally smart in any of the fashionable colors. It was shown by Lanvin recently, in dark blue duvetyn, with an exquisite bit of creamy shadow lace in a pleated frill high up around the neck, a charming setting for a youthful face. The bodice is not unlike a middie, with a deep upturn cuff that fits snugly around the hips.

BIG CROWD SEES CENTRAL HIGH WIN HOMECOMING GAME 17 TO 6

The lock-step shift, brain child of Coach Charley Moran, of little Centre and used with astounding success against Harvard a few weeks ago, was transplanted from Southern soil to the dusty Fairground gridiron Friday afternoon, but there, far from its native surroundings, withered and died, while the Central High football team gleefully trampled on its remains and fittingly celebrated its "homecoming game" by soundly trouncing Washington C. H. High, exponents of the trick shift by the score of 17 to 6.

Something very near the play used at Centre was employed by Coach Warren Vannorsdall of the Fayette County tribe, but it repeatedly failed of its real purpose to disorganize the Xenia forward wall, although a pass used from the formation succeeded with amazing regularity. The play was a revelation to the big homecoming crowd, largest of the season, and it first interested and later amused both sidelines and players. Too frequent employment of the trick, which wore off its novelty, worked to its own downfall, and as the twilight gathered in the closing moments of play, it greatly hindered and slowed up the attack of the visitors.

Fans saw Coach Earl Burgen's "Big Blue" team accomplish a rare achievement in grid annals Friday. For although Xenia came out on the long end of the score, the locals were short on everything else that go to make up the game, except the number of players. Washington made more first downs, completed more successful passes and was penalized less frequently and for fewer yards. Xenia did not take a first down until the third quarter, in spite of the fact that it had a ten point lead at the half.

Captain Don Currie and his mates began to show their real offensive talent in the second half, when they negotiated all of their first downs, three in the third and three in the fourth quarter. In the meantime the visitors piled up four first downs in the first quarter, two in the second, one in the third and three in the fourth. Xenia attempted three passes in the third quarter, completing two for ten yards apiece, or a total of 20 yards, while two more were unsuccessful in the final session. The visitors completed four out of ten in the first quarter for 80 yards, two out of six, in the second quarter for 17 yards, one out of two in the third quarter for 12 yards and two out of seven in the final period for 30 yards, or a total of nine completed out of 27 attempted, for a total of 146 yards. Two of these passes were not actually completed, but the gains were allowed on fouls by Xenians, and these two donations contributed 31 yards to the total of 115 made by actual completion of overhead plays. Xenia was penalized 20 yards the length of a Washington pass, in the first quarter for tripping, received one five-yard off side penalty in the second quarter, one 15-yard pushing penalty and a five-yard off side penalty in the third quarter and one 5 yard penalty for touching a punt and one penalty of 11 yards for interfering with a man attempting to catch a pass in the fourth quarter, for a total of six penalties and 61 yards. Washington was penalized once in the first quarter for using hands on offense, 15 yards and again in the final quarter, five yards for offside play, or two penalties for 20 yards.

Xenia's line had its hands full with the heavy Washington forward wall and Washington's passers were always proected from an attempt to smother, while the visiting backfield was always able to get away to a good start. Captain Baker and Larimer were towers of strength on the line, while Dellinger, the yearling full-back and Harris, the colored half, shone in the backfield. Foster, colored tackle and Clark, end, also were formed well for the Vannorsdall assemblage, Randall, Art Currie and Tom Hollencamp were offensive lights for the locals, while on the line, Don Currie, Yeakley, Zell, and Ballentyne.

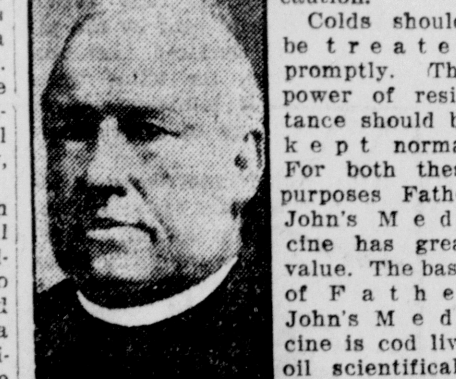

In the second half, sparked by Washburn and Cowan played well at the ends and Art Currie ran the team with the speed that signified his generalship against Greenfield last week. Hollencamp was especially good on off-tackle smashes and backing up the line, while Randall ran the ends well, but excelled particularly in defensive work, tackling deadily and blocking many passes. His kicking was as good a high school exhibition ever seen here. He kicked one drop kick from the field, and two for extra points after touchdowns, that were perfectly executed and had considerable carry. His punts too were pleasing. Standing five yards deep in his own end zone early in the game, the deerfoot booted the ball 42 yards, where the Washington quarterback, Yeakley kicked off to Harris to start the game, and he criss-crossed the oval to Baughn who was down on his own 27. Harris failed to gain twice on the lockstep comedy, but on the same formation Clark passed 20-yards to Harris. Baughn made three but Clark was stopped and the latter again passed to Harris for a 30 yard gain, to Xenia's 23 yard line. Dellinger made two and Harris passed to Dellinger for seven, Harris was stopped, and here "Squeek" Vannorsdall, attempted a drop kick from his own 27 that went wide.

Xenia took the ball on the 20 Hollencamp made one, and Randall was stopped. A bad pass resulted in a fumble by Randall and he lost 13 yards on the recovery. Standing in his own end zone he punted to Vannorsdall on Washington's 43. Two passes were incomplete, but a 20-yard gain was allowed on the second for tripping. Dellinger and Harris made another first down in three attempts, but Washington was penalized 15-yards when Harris used his hands illegally. A pass grounded, and Clark passed to Baker for ten yards. Another pass grounded and Baker punted to A. Currie on Xenia's 35. Woolary made eight, Hollencamp and Randall were stopped and Randall punted to Vannorsdall on Washington's 41, where he was spiled by Cowan. A pass grounded and another was intercepted by Yeakley but the referee had blown the ball dead. Baker attempted to punt, but a bad pass from center made it necessary for him to down the oval on his own 20. Woolary was stopped and Currie made one as the quarter ended, Randall made two and then Randall booted a dropkick.

TO FORM NEW CABINET

Berlin, Nov. 18.—President Ebert has asked Albert Cuna, director of the Hamburg-American line, to form a new cabinet in succession to the Wirth ministry that resigned Tuesday night.

watch the people come and go. Some are dressed elegantly and in the latest fashion. Some are dressed—that's all.

I watched these people in their attitude and manner. This lady whose silks rustle and smoothly sing their fashion song—I note that the eyes of all are fastened upon her. And she notes it, too! The fine clothes are becoming, for they are beautiful. They have been designed by an artist. But the eyes of other people are saping the very worth of beauty that this work of art has created.

Live's greatness is always placed ahead. "The eyes of other people" are never able to see that far!

"Take no thought for the morrow" has become one of the axioms of sold achievement.

Never mind the eyes of other people. They never are able to see the thing which you are able to see. We would all agree if that were possible. And that would mean stagnation, inertia and death in life.

Someone has said that no one is so blind as he will not see.

Your own vision is a thing both personal and sacred. It is an inheritance bound to the noblest tradition that trails you.

See with your own eyes. Let the eyes of other people wander and guess and speculate as they will.

And if there are to be any rewards, drink them in as earned.

No two eyes see the same. Remember that. And no eyes on earth are able to see as yours are able to see—for YOU!

The most refreshing spring in the entire garden of the soul is its eyesight spring. Try to keep it bubbling with sparkling water.

DANCING PARTY

A social affair that was unusually beautiful in all its appointments was the dance given Friday evening at the Elks club by Mr. and Mrs. S. Milton McKay and Mrs. Laura Alexander in honor of Miss Mildred Leonard of Cincinnati, who is their guest.

The colors yellow and green were carried out with delightful effect in the decorations used both in the dance hall and in the dining room. In the dance hall large artistically shaped lanterns of yellow cañon finished with long tassels shed a soft glow over the scene and festoons of yellow in which southern smilax was entwined formed a canopy over the room. The arches were screened by a lattice covered with Southern smilax against which palms were effectively banked. Flamingo emblems used about the hall, added attractive touches to the decorations.

In the dining room where delicious refreshments were served during the evening the decorations of yellow festoons and Southern smilax were also used and the tables were lighted with yellow shaded candles.

Excellent music was furnished by Shepherd's orchestra, and various pretty novelty dances were introduced. One of the prettiest of the dances of the evening was a "sparkler dance" in which the dancers carried lighted sparklers. Attractive little favors distributed during the evening added to the merriment of the occasion.

More than one hundred guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Alexander at the affair which was one of the loveliest of the season.

GRIDIRON HOP IS BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

Central High School students brought their "homecoming" celebration to a close Friday night, when they entertained at a gridiron dance at the Knights of Pythias Castle, for the members of the Washington C. H. High football team, which played Central High in the afternoon, and for visiting students.

The dancing party was sponsored by the senior class, and the light blue and white of Washington C. H., and the dark blue and white of Central High mingled amicably in the decorations. Streamers of the two school colors being used, while the lights were shaded with the same colors. Goal posts at each end of the room were also blue and white. Gay dancing numbers in which serpentine were used, featured the evening.

Between 150 and 200 students and guests, including the teachers of Central High School, attended the affair, which began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted until eleven. Members of the junior class sold ice cream bars and home made candy during the evening, the funds to be used to boost their fund for the annual junior reception.

The party was chaperoned by the officers of the Parent-Teacher Association of Central High, including Mrs. J. W. Stevens, Mrs. J. J. Stout, Mrs. Charles Purdom, Mrs. M. L. Wolf and Mrs. George H. Eckerle.

HEAVY CAMPAIGN NOW UNDER WAY

Father John's Medicine Being Aggressively Advertised—Sales Increasing Fast

With its usual heavy newspaper campaign as a foundation and with the help of all the logical supplementary advertising media the Father John's Medicine Co. is going right after new business.

A carefully planned campaign has been mapped out and is now under full swing—newspapers, as usual, are being used extensively, together with a liberal amount of space in weekly and monthly magazines.

Street car cards and posters are playing a more important part than ever before this year in advertising Father John's Medicine, a continuous 12 months run being the order of the day. These two forms of advertising coupled with moving picture flashes have been proving very effective to date.

Realizing, however, that advertising at the point of sale is perhaps the most important of all advertising, this company is now distributing free to retail druggists a very beautiful sales producing window trim. This display, appearing simultaneously with the nation-wide distribution to the homes of a news journal, ties up the whole advertising effort. Displays will be mailed free to retail druggists upon receipt of a post card request.

Lastly, a live attractive weekly news bulletin service is available to a limited number of dealers in each city.

Druggists, cash in on this campaign! Get your share of the big sales! Nationally advertised products bring people into your store and these customers often purchase wide margin merchandise before they leave.

The season is right. Let's go! Send a post card today to Father John's Medicine Co., Lowell, Mass., for that beautiful new window display.

CO. COMMISSIONER QUESTION IS STILL UNSOLVED, IS SAID

If no incumbent county commissioner in Ohio makes a contest of the fact that the designation "short term" did not appear on the ballots when all three county commissioners were elected the last time, then all newly elected county commissioners will assume office the first of the year unmolested.

If some commissioner who will be deposed by the newly elected commissioner should make a contest of the case and carry it to the supreme court in Ohio, disposition of the office will still be much of the question, depending on the supreme court decision with the possibility that the omission on the ballots will be held as unconstitutional and the incumbents permitted to retain their offices. This is the situation in the county commissioner's office, which came up before the primary last August and which has since been considerably discussed without an opinion that might be taken as final. Herman Eavey, newly elected commissioner in Greene County, has never received an opinion on whether he may take office the first of the year or not and R. D. Williamson, incumbent, whose place he will take, has never received an opinion and will not make a contest of the case.

The middle was the outgrowth of the new law changing the length of terms of county commissioners from two to four years in an attempt to arrange their election so that all three would not be unseated at once, making it necessary for three new commissioners to assume office. For that reason it was designated that the low candidate in number of votes at the last election when all three were candidates, should be designated a short term candidate, to hold office for only two years, making it necessary hereafter for a new commissioner to be elected.

The ballots at that election however, did not specify that one of the candidates should be elected for a short term, and therefore there has been considerable legal opinion that the law will not hold, being unconstitutional. If it does hold good, Mr. Williamson, as lowest candidate in point of votes will be the short term candidate whose term expire the first of the year. Under the new law John A. North and George N. Perrill will hold office four years and their places will have to be re-filled in two more years. Mr. Eavey, if he takes office, will also hold office for four years, and thus one candidate will have to be elected to the office every four years, and two candidates on every four alternating years.

In spite of arguments on the question for several months, and reported opinions from the state officials that the omission defeats the purpose of the law, none of the incumbent commissioners any place in Ohio have filed a test case. Mr. Eavey, Greene County's newly elected commissioner, is marking time he said Saturday and has never obtained an opinion on the question. Mr. Williamson, whose place he will take, will not contest the matter and will step out of office the first of year unless a case is made of the question and it is decided that incumbents should serve two more years.

SUNDAY SCORES ALL SINNERS SEVERELY IN XENIA SATURDAY

show the path and end of vanity. "Be ready always to give answer." "Go ahead! Take the health, the power, and beauty that God gives you, but if you take it without Jesus Christ in your souls you are unsaved. If a man breaks down on the road to heaven there is only one course he can take, the right road by way of the preacher."

"There are only three ways that God reveals his power, and one is that of creation. We can study the sciences, but they can't begin to give the true conception of God. "All you know is the word of God, which is magnified against that of creation. God cannot save you from sin, but he can save you from the power of sin. When we all are in heaven we will all be ex-sinners, but the unrepentant sinners will not be among those present—they will be in Hell."

"You might be in doubt of what you are going to do or where you will be tomorrow, but you will not need to worry about the end after death—it is one of the two things— heaven or hell. You who try to force it to an issue—forget it—It's Jesus or nothing."

"It's not how you feel that makes you what you are—some days I feel punk, as does 'Ma' Sunday, but if I believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, I am saved. You might feel like you are bound to go to heaven, but it is all a question of faith."

"We all have the gifts of God, like Adam and Eve, with some restrictions, and if you give what you have to God, he will return it with his word of promises, and you keep that and your faith in it and Him."

Jesus kept the Law of God perfectly the Jews and Gentiles conspired to break it—he conquered their power and his death by faith. Like that, our coming back to redemption is by the path of faith.

"We all shout that we belong to the Twentieth Century," shouted Sunday, pacing back and forth across the platform, "but the law of God hasn't changed, and we reach death by starvation for truth and righteousness."

"Astronomy books have been rewritten, but they are the same old stars that God made. When I get to heaven I will not question God about the things that puzzle me now, because there are things that God did not intend us to know, and in heaven all knowledge will be perfect."

"If I accept Jesus Christ I am saved," is the cry of the long-faced individuals of this world, who think that through that asinine belief they are made whole.

"I can't understand how people will believe the word of an insurance agent, and doubt the Word of God. Take the word of the Bible, like you take everything else—for what it is intended, and you're safe. The Bible was given for one purpose, that of spreading the truth, that Jesus is Christ the Savior. That is why God gave it."

"The Bible is just a record, and it gives no endorsement for us to follow, only our common-sense minds. "A lie is a malicious, deliberate effort to deceive, and a falsehood is just a method of evading the truth, strong in the belief that it is no one's business," is one of the forceful declarations made by Sunday that won profound applause.

"The Lord is a good scout," characteristically declared Sunday, in winning his audience over to the belief that it is easy to be a Christian.

"If there is one character in the Bible that I hate, it's that old man Abraham—he was nothing but an old scoundrel, and had 400 more wives than Brigham Young, and looked like a Bush Leaguer."

"All you have to do is say you are sorry, and God will forgive you that and forgive the other fellow the other thing—it's up to you. A man is happier because I am doing a service, and have spent 26 years jawing religion."

"Girls, don't let the fellow kid you that tells you he will quit drinking, cursing or any of the other vices after you are married—make him do it before. A wife can make you hide your head in shame by one act, so don't have the idea that your wife is yours to darn your socks, patch your breeches, and bake you pies, and that what you do outside your home, and she does inside is none of either's business."

"The so-called free thinker, is a friend of the infidel, and has the same amount of estimation in my sight."

"The heart is the silent testator and it won't, if you listen to it, let you go wrong."

Speaking of criticisms heard of his preaching, Sunday said, "If I don't stick to my text, I draw my crowds just the same, and the Lord upon my entrance into heaven won't examine me on my grammar. Hope is the laughter of faith, and your reward is being placed safe in the arms of Jesus."

The Sunday program was opened with singing by the entire audience, benediction by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and prayer by the Rev. D. D. Dodds, of the First United Presbyterian Church. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. G. A. Scott, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Sunday was introduced to this audience by the Rev. C. P. Proudfoot, at whose invitation he attended the Xenia meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Proudfoot first introduced Mrs. Sunday, who was requested to talk on the work at Xenia Lake. The work of the late Dr. W. G. Moorehead, was spoken of by Mrs. Sunday, who described this "Sunday School resort," and told of the raising of $26,000 to build a large assembly hall there, seating 5000 people.

"We are proud of the sneers at being called 'the Sunday School resort,'" said Mrs. Sunday, "and we are realizing our aim, that of championing the cause of Christ."

A collection was taken among the audience for the building fund at Xenia Lake.

A High School quartette composed of John Wood, Lawrence Tiffany, Robert Ballentyne, and William Miller, sang "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," the entire assemblage joining in the chorus, led by V. E. Seibert of Central High School.

In his introductory speech the Rev. Proudfoot, presented to Mr. Sunday on behalf of the Xenia Ministerial Association, a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, Sunday, being the evangelist's birthday. "He looks younger today than he did when I knew him eight years ago" said Rev. Proudfoot in presenting the flowers, which were in turn presented by Sunday to "Mother."

At the close of his address, the crowd surged around Mr. and Mrs. Sunday, who graciously received each one.

Sunday was accompanied to this city by Mrs. Sunday alone, the other members of his party not making the trip.

DANCING PARTY

GIVEN ON FRIDAY.
A social affair that was unusually beautiful in all of its appointments was the dance given Friday evening at the Elks Club by Mr. and Mrs. S. Milton McKay and Mrs. Laura Alexander in honor of Miss Mildred LeCour of Cincinnati, who is their guest.

The colors yellow and green were carried out with delightful effect in the decorations used both in the dance hall and in the dining room. In the dance hall large artistically shaped lanterns of yellow cañon finished with long tassels and a soft glow over the scene and festoons of yellow in which southern smilax was entwined formed a canopy over the room. The orchestra was screened by a lattice covered with Southern smilax against which palms were effectively banked. Thanksgiving emblems used about the hall, added attractive touches to the decorations.

In the dining room where delicious refreshments were served during the evening the decorations of yellow festoons and Southern smilax were also used and the tables were lighted with yellow shaded candles.

Excellent music was furnished by Shepherd's orchestra, and various pretty novelty dances were introduced. One of the prettiest of the dances of the evening was a "sparkler dance" in which the dancers carried lighted sparklers. Attractive little favors distributed during the evening added to the merriment of the occasion.

More than one hundred guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Alexander at the affair which was one of the loveliest of the season.

GRIDIRON HOP

IS BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

Central High School students brought their "homecoming" celebration to a close Friday night, when they entertained at a gridiron dance at the Knights of Pythias Castle, for the members of the Washington C. H. High football team, which played Central High in the afternoon, and for visiting students.

The dancing party was sponsored by the senior class, and the light blue and white of Washington C. H., and the dark blue and white of Central High mingled amicably in the decorations, streamers of the two school colors being used, while the lights were shaded with the same colors. Goal posts at each end of the room were also blue and white. Gay dancing numbers in which serpentine were used, featured the evening.

Between 150 and 200 students and guests, including the teachers of Central High School, attended the affair, which began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted until eleven. Members of the junior class sold ice cream bars and home made candy during the evening, the funds to be used to boost their fund for the annual junior reception.

The party was chaperoned by the officers of the Parent-Teacher Association of Central High, including Mrs. J. W. Stevens, Mrs. J. Stout, Mrs. Charles Purdom, Mrs. M. L. Wolf and Mrs. George H. Eckerle.

The guests were Lucile Coy, Florence Welch, Wilma Compton, Eloise Moore, Helen Moore, Meryl Funderburg, Mildred Stewart, Marion Whiting, William Rallston, Marjorie Grinnell, Ferrol Ralston, Clara Zell, Esther Hughes, Lois Fess, Eleanor Alexander and Eleanor Middleton, of Yellow Springs, and Miss Dorothy Drake and Miss Bower, of Springfield.

HEAVY CAMPAIGN NOW UNDER WAY

Father John's Medicine Being Aggressively Advertised—Sales Increasing Fast

With its usual heavy newspaper campaign as a foundation and with the help of all the logical supplementary advertising media the Father John's Medicine Co., is going right after new business.

A carefully planned campaign has been mapped out and is now under full swing—newspapers, as usual, are being used extensively, together with a liberal amount of space in weekly and monthly magazines.

Street car cards and posters are playing a more important part than ever before this year in advertising Father John's Medicine, a continuous 12 months run being the order of the day. These two forms of advertising coupled with moving picture flashes have been proving very effective to date.

Realizing, however, that advertising at the point of sale is perhaps the most important of all advertising, this company is now distributing free to retail druggists a very beautiful sales producing window trim. This display, appearing simultaneously to the homes of a news journal, ties up the whole advertising effort. Displays will be mailed free to retail druggists upon receipt of a post card request.

Lastly, a live attractive weekly news bulletin services is available to a limited number of dealers in each city.

Druggists, cash in on this campaign! Get your share of the big sales! Nationally advertised products bring people into your store and these customers often purchase wide margin merchandise before they leave.

The season is right. Let's go! Send a post card today to Father John's Medicine Co., Lowell, Mass., for that beautiful new window display.

CO. COMMISSIONER QUESTION IS STILL UNSOLVED, IS SAID

If no incumbent county commissioner in Ohio makes a contest of the fact that the designation "short term" did not appear on the ballots when all three county commissioners were elected the last time, then all newly elected county commissioners will assume office the first of the year unmolested.

If some commissioner who will be deposed by the newly elected commissioner should make a contest of the case and carry it to the supreme court in Ohio, disposition of the office will still be much of the question, depending on the supreme court decision with the possibility that the omission on the ballots will be held as unconstitutional and the incumbents permitted to retain their offices.

This is the situation in the county commissioner's office tangle, that came up before the primary last August and which has since been considerably discussed without an opinion that might be taken as final. Herman Eavey, newly elected commissioner in Greene County, has not received an opinion on whether he may take office the first of the year or not and R. D. Williamson, incumbent, whose place he will take, has never received an opinion and will not make a contest of the case.

The middle was the outgrowth of the new law changing the length of terms of county commissioners from two to four years in an attempt to arrange their election so that all three would not be unseated at once, making it necessary for three new commissioners to assume office. For that reason it was designated that the low candidate in number of votes at the last election when all three were candidates, should be designated a three short term candidate, to hold office for only two years, making it necessary hereafter for a new commissioner to be elected.

The ballots at that election however, did not specify that one of the candidates should be elected for a short term, and therefore there has been considerable legal opinion that the law will not hold, being unconstitutional. If it does hold good, Mr. Williamson, as lowest candidate in point of votes will be the short term candidate whose term expire the first of the year. Under the new law John A. North and George N. Perrill will hold office four years and their places will have to be re-filled in two more years. Mr. Eavey, if he takes office, will also hold office for four years, and thus one candidate will have to be elected to the office every four years, and two candidates on every four alternating years.

In spite of arguments on the question for several months, and reported opinions from the state officials that the omission defeats the purpose of the law, none of the incumbent commissioners any place in Ohio have filed a test case. Mr. Eavey, Greene County's newly elect commissioner, is marking time he said Saturday and has never obtained an opinion on the question. Mr. Williamson, whose place he will take, will not contest the matter and will step out of office the first of year unless a case is made of the question and it is decided that incumbents should serve two more years.

"The Lord is a good scout," characteristically declared Sunday, in warning his audience over to the belief that it is easy to be a Christian.

"If there is one character in the Bible that I hate, it's that old man Abraham—he was nothing but an old scoundrel, and had 400 more wives than Brigham Young, and looked like a Bush Leaguer."

"All you have to do is say you are sorry, and God will forgive you that and forgive the other fellow the other thing—it's up to you. A man is happier when he is a Christian. I am happier because I am doing a service, and have spent 26 years jawing religion."

"Girls, don't let the fellow kid you that tells you he will quit drinking, cursing or any of the other vices after you are married—make him do it before. A wife can make you hide your head in shame by one act, so don't have the idea that your wife is yours to darn your socks, patch your breeches, and bake you pies, and that what you do outside your home, and she does inside is none of either's business."

"The so-called free thinker, is a friend of the infidel, and has the same amount of estimation in my sight."

"The heart is the silent testator and it won't, if you listen to it, let you go wrong."

Speaking of criticisms heard of his preaching, Sunday, said, "If I don't stick to my text, I draw my crowds just the same, and the Lord upon my entrance into heaven won't examine me on my grammar. Hope is the laughter of faith, and your reward is being placed safe in the arms of Jesus."

The Sunday program was opened with singing by the entire audience, benediction by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and prayer by the Rev. D. D. Dodds, of the First United Presbyterian Church. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. G. A. Scott, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Sunday was introduced to this audience by the Rev. C. P. Proudfit, at whose invitation he attended the Xenia meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Proudfit first introduced Mrs. Sunday, who was requested to talk on the work at Xenia Lake. The work of the late Dr. W. G. Moorehead, was spoken of by Mrs. Sunday, who described this "Sunday School resort," and told of the raising of $26,000 to build a large assembly hall there, seating 8000 people. "We are proud of the sneers at being called 'the Sunday School resort,'" said Mrs. Sunday, "and we are realizing our aim, that of championing the cause of Christ."

A collection was taken among the audience for the building fund at Xenia Lake.

A High School quartette composed of John Wood, Lawrence Tiffany, Robert Ballentine, and William Miller, sang "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," the entire assemblage joining in the chorus, led by V. E. Seibert of Central High School.

In his introductory speech the Rev. Proudfit, presented to Mr. Sunday on behalf of the Xenia Ministerial Association, a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, Sunday, being the evangelist's birthday. "He looks younger today than he did when I knew him eight years ago" said Rev. Proudfit in presenting the flowers, which were in turn presented by Sunday to "Mother."

At the close of his address, the crowd surged around Mr. and Mrs. Sunday, who graciously received each one. Sunday was accompanied to this city by Mrs. Sunday alone, the other members of his party not making the trip.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into pain and congestion relief comes at once. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the sore spot is warmed through and through and the torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on every package.

Drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to help neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in correcting kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE.

Since 1907 when the Christmas Seal sale idea was conceived by Miss Emily P. Bissell in Delaware and the sum of $3000 was contributed by only a few persons and states the educational tuberculosis campaign has been steadily growing. Now everybody is a working partner through buying and selling seals distributed by the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1200 affiliated agencies throughout the country. For 1922 over one billion seals are on the market. Over twenty million dollars has been raised through these stickers to spread information and educate the public in the ways of combating the disease.

The Ohio Public Health Association is the agency in this state through which Christmas seals are sold and the campaign against the disease is carried on. The target for Ohio this year is $300,000 or thirty million seals.

THE DUTY OF THOSE WHO HAVE RECEIVED THE LIGHT TO SHARE IT.

One recent fine address of the English Ambassador Geddes made a deep impression on all who heard it, and won the expressed approval of those present because of the sincerity and candor of its appeal. It was not in the mind nor in the speech of the representative of Britain to flaunt a national superiority or an exclusive international compact in the face of the rest of civilization. Instead, he impressed on the consciences of Americans the burden and the duty of those who have received the light to share it, of those who know the blessings of peace under law to communicate those blessings, and to stand together in fealty to each other and to the ideals that are theirs.

Naturally, the Ambassador finds himself in warm sympathy with such bodies as the English-Speaking Union, which are working for a better understanding between those who use the same tongue and enjoy a common heritage of social custom and legal tradition. The bond between Britain and America must be increasingly intimate as the causes of friction disappear. It does not mean the forfeiture of national self-respect for us to recognize the staunchest of friends and allies in those whom the speaker represents. Those who would poison the wells and muddy the waters instead of clarifying the current of international thought and feeling should see the error of their ways.

Such high-minded discourse as this, innocent of casuistry or special pleading with a selfish end in view, makes for peace on earth and the establishment of righteousness, unselfishness and human brotherhood.

"GLIDING," THE LATEST HUMAN FLYING DEVICE.

With the assurance that the first demonstration in America of the world's newest wonder—real human flight—will be held there, it becomes a practical certainty that Daytona, Florida, and all the country thereabouts will be taxed to its utmost to care for the throngs of contestants and spectators. As an advertisement for that section and for all Florida it is the greatest event in the history of the state.

The glider contest to be held on the wonderful beach there in January is the third in the world. The first was held in Germany, the second in France, and both of them within the past few weeks. Gliding is so new that few people understand it or realize its possibilities.

To hop off a hill anywhere from 20 to 100 feet in height and remain in the air more than three hours without power of any kind is merely the first step toward the real conquering of the air by mankind. Assuming that the same progress will be made in gliding that has marked the advance of the automobile and the airplane, it will be but a matter of a few short years until any and everybody will be flying whither they wish.

Those who recall the throngs that gathered a few years ago to witness the first airplane flights can well conceive the magnitude of the crowds that will gather there in January to witness the flights of real human birds—men with only a set of wings, weighing less than 100 pounds, who will soar aloft for hours, going where they wish and returning when they choose.

Of course all attempts at gliding will not be successful. There will be accidents and disappointments. The object of gliding contests is to discover the best methods of wing construction. There will be scores of models, some of which will fail and some succeed.

Authorities declare that a thorough understanding of air currents is all that is necessary to become a glider—ability to take advantage of gusts of wind to rise and lulls to descend and gain momentum.

Daytona and all Florida are to be congratulated upon securing the first gliding contest to be held in America.

CONTENTED FARMER IS NEED OF NATION.

The Nation must give more attention to the problems of those who till the soil or awaken some day to realize that a purely industrial and commercial nation is an unstable and precarious unit, Seymour L. Cromwell, president of the New York Exchange, said at a conference of the American Country Life Association.

A discontented rural population can cause national disharmony and defeat the best-laid programs of prosperity, he said, and suggested that investment bankers bend their efforts toward cultivating the confidence of the farmer. Such a type of business might not at first be profitable, he added, but the bankers were in honor bound to do something for the rural people.

"There still exists," he said, "a strong suspicion on the part of farmers toward banks and bankers—a suspicion founded almost entirely upon misunderstandings. By taking care of legitimate investment of farmers and thus preventing large losses from spurious types of investment banks would be taking the first step in bringing about a wholesome relation between banking and farming."

COMING OVER TO GET ACQUAINTED

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Mr. Heber Douthett is the guest of relatives at Grape Grove. There will be a dance given by the All-Around Dancing Club at the K. of P. Hall tonight. Inadequate room for the employees of the institution and the good results attained by the system of competitive bids in purchasing all supplies, are the principal matters treated in the thirty-third annual report of the board of trustees of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' Orphans Home, filed with Governor Nash, yesterday.

Dr. T. J. Savage has been treating some very distinguished patients lately at his Sanitarium. They came all the way from the state of Missouri. The dead lock in the Court, house Commission which has for a long time existed over the question of the purchase of metal furniture, was broken last night when by a vote of five of the commission it was decided to make the purchase. The commission will probably not purchase more than $4,000 worth of the furniture.

COLD AND HOT BATHS

There has always been a question as to whether the cold or hot bath is the most beneficial. There is something undeniably exhilarating about a cold plunge, on the other hand, there is both relaxation and refreshment in a hot bath. At one time the cold morning bath was quite a fad, all doctors recommended it for healthy as well as sick friends. I think the fad continues today though it has not so many enthusiastic advocates.

Personally, I think that it takes so much physical energy to brave the shock of a cold plunge that more strength is given out than is gained by the later reaction, and I am assuming that there will be a reaction. When there isn't, of course, a cold plunge is no more healthy than getting one's feet wet or sitting in a draught. I think that even an anemic person will benefit by a cold shower following a hot bath for if the bath is very hot and the skin glowing from that, the shock of the cold water is a pleasant one and its effect can only be stimulating. But the room and the bath water must be hot enough to have made the skin already glowing and the bath must be followed by a brisk rub down with a very rough towel to continue this stimulation.

That is why the Turkish baths are so splendid for the weak as well as the strong. They make the body so glowingly hot that the cold shower is a delight. Fortunately Turkish baths are being built in more and more small towns so that greater numbers can know their benefit. For those who cannot enjoy the real one I would suggest a vapour bath as an excellent substitute. Put a cane-seated chair over a big bowl or tub of boiling hot water, seat yourself over this undressed and make a tent around yourself out of bath towels with blankets over them. This is to keep in the warmth and the steam. Even a few gallons of boiling water will make you perspire. Follow with a cold rinse.

Miss M. B.—Your pimples must come from internal disturbances. If you keep your system cleared and do not overeat or eat food that disagrees with you, your condition will clear up.

Rummy—Unless the lump on your nose is disfiguring, I should forget all about it and cultivate other possibilities. There are operations for correcting small defects in the shape of the nose, but most people prefer to leave the nose alone.

Bobby—For the lines under the eyes, feed the tissues with a nourishing cream, but if you are trying to avoid wearing the glasses, while all the time you are needing them, you will only be making matters worse. All of the days that I have so far tested are very drying. These require many applications and it takes several days for the skin to recover. They do, however, cleanse the pores and may have their uses at times.

DR. HALL FEARED HARM TO HIMSELF

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 18.—A witness was found by an International News Service reporter today who declared positively that the Rev. Edward W. Hall, slain rector of the church of St. John the Evangelist, had told him of having been threatened with bodily harm by a man named Henry. The witness also quoted Dr. Hall as saying that he had quarreled with his wife repeatedly over Mrs. Eleanor Mills, leader of the church choir, whose body was found alongside of his, under the crab apple tree on the Phillips farm on the morning of Sept. 16.

The witness is Rev. Paul F. B. Hamborszky, formerly pastor of the Hungarian Reform Church of this city and for ten years an intimate acquaintance of the slain rector. Dr. Hamborszky said he had talked many times with Dr. Hall regarding that clergyman's relations with Mrs. Mills and his consequent troubles at home and his quotations from these confidential verbal exchanges form one of the most sensational chapters yet recorded in the double murder mystery that has been replete with sensations from its very inception.

WILL ANSWER ANY WOMAN WHO WRITES

Woman Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes This Offer

Cumberland, Md.—"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school, because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine. I always have an easy time at childbirth and what it did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she will write asking what it did for me."

—Mrs. JOHN HEIER, 53 Dilley St., Cumberland, Md.

During girlhood and later during motherhood Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief to Mrs. Heier. Her case is but one of many we constantly publish recommending our Vegetable Compound. She is willing to answer your letter. Write to her.

PAID FOR.

There are more gorgeous cars than mine, with greater lustre do they shine, they pass in gaudy gangs; with silver doodads here and there I see them on the thoroughfare, but have no jealous pangs. For many cars are bought on time, and all the panoply sublime means creditors in view; and every time the owners drive some fourteen miles, or maybe five, there is a payment due. My ancient bus has rusty springs, and as along the road it swings it creaks and knocks and groans; but none can say, "So strike me blind, your payments are a month behind, now hand me forty bones." It is embarrassing to ride in pomp and circumstances and pride along the Great White Way, and find that creditors in hordes are climbing on your runningboards to bone you for their pay. Far better tool a rusty boat whose horn has a discordant note, whose cylinders all miss, than journey in a noble van you bought on the installment plan, for debt destroys your bliss. And what is true of motor cars is true of plug hats and cigars, of prunes and gingerbread; the greatest bliss a mortal knows is in his bosom when he owes no man a single red.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE.

Since 1907 when the Christmas Seal sale idea was conceived by Miss Emily P. Bissell in Delaware and the sum of $3000 was contributed by only a few persons and states the educational tuberculosis campaign has been steadily growing. Now everybody is a working partner through buying and selling seals distributed by the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1200 affiliated agencies throughout the country. For 1922 over one billion seals are on the market. Over twenty million dollars has been raised through these stickers to spread information and educate the public in the ways of combating the disease.

The Ohio Public Health Association is the agency in this state through which Christmas seals are sold and the campaign against the disease is carried on. The target for Ohio this year is $300,000 or thirty million seals.

THE DUTY OF THOSE WHO HAVE RECEIVED THE LIGHT TO SHARE IT.

One recent fine address of the English Ambassador Geddes made a deep impression on all who heard it, and won the expressed approval of those present because of the sincerity and candor of its appeal. It was not in the mind nor in the speech of the representative of Britain to flaunt a national superiority or an exclusive international compact in the face of the rest of civilization. Instead, he impressed on the consciences of Americans the burden and the duty of those who have received the light to share it, of those who know the blessings of peace under law to communicate those blessings, and to stand together in fealty to each other and to the ideals that are theirs.

Naturally, the Ambassador finds himself in warm sympathy with such bodies as the English-Speaking Union, which are working for a better understanding between those who use the same tongue and enjoy a common heritage of social custom and legal tradition. The bond between Britain and America must be increasingly intimate as the causes of friction disappear. It does not mean the forfeiture of national self-respect for us to recognize the staunchest of friends and allies in those whom the speaker represents. Those who would poison the wells and muddy the waters instead of clarifying the current of international thought and feeling should see the error of their ways.

Such high-minded discourse as this, innocent of casuistry or special pleading with a selfish end in view, makes for peace on earth and the establishment of righteousness, unselfishness and human brotherhood.

"GLIDING," THE LATEST HUMAN FLYING DEVICE.

With the assurance that the first demonstration in America of the world's newest wonder—real human flight—will be held there, it becomes a practical certainty that Daytona, Florida, and all the country thereabouts will be taxed to its utmost to care for the throngs of contestants and spectators. As an advertisement for that section and for all Florida it is the greatest event in the history of the state.

The glider contest to be held on the wonderful beach there in January is the third in the world. The first was held in Germany, the second in France, and both of them within the past few weeks. Gliding is so new that few people understand it or realize its possibilities.

To hop off a hill anywhere from 20 to 100 feet in height and remain in the air more than three hours without power of any kind is merely the first step toward the real conquering of the air by mankind. Assuming that the same progress will be made in gliding that has marked the advance of the automobile and the airplane, it will be but a matter of a few short years until any and everybody will be flying whither they wish.

Those who recall the throngs that gathered a few years ago to witness the first airplane flights can well conceive the magnitude of the crowds that will gather there in January to witness the flights of real human birds—men with only a set of wings, weighing less than 100 pounds, who will soar aloft for hours, going where they wish and returning when they choose.

Of course all attempts at gliding will not be successful. There will be accidents and disappointments. The object of gliding contests is to discover the best methods of wing construction. There will be scores of models, some of which will fail and some succeed.

Authorities declare that a thorough understanding of air currents is all that is necessary to become a glider—ability to take advantage of gusts of wind to rise and lulls to descend and gain momentum.

Daytona and all Florida are to be congratulated upon securing the first gliding contest to be held in America.

CONTENTED FARMER IS NEED OF NATION.

The Nation must give more attention to the problems of those who till the soil or awaken some day to realize that a purely industrial and commercial nation is an unstable and precarious unit, Seymour L. Cromwell, president of the New York Exchange, said at a conference of the American Country Life Association.

A discontented rural population can cause national disharmony and defeat the best-laid programs of prosperity, he said, and suggested that investment bankers bend their efforts toward cultivating the confidence of the farmer. Such a type of business might not at first be profitable, he added, but the bankers were in honor bound to do something for the rural people.

"There still exists," he said, "a strong suspicion on the part of farmers toward banks and bankers—a suspicion founded almost entirely upon misunderstandings. By taking care of legitimate investment of farmers and thus preventing large losses from spurious types of investment banks would be taking the first step in bringing about a wholesome relation between banking and farming."

COMING OVER TO GET ACQUAINTED

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Mr. Heber Douthett is the guest of relatives at Grape Grove. There will be a dance given by the All-Around Dancing Club at the K. of P. Hall tonight.

Inadequate room for the employees of the institution and the good results attained by the system of competitive bids in purchasing all supplies, are the principal matters treated of in the thirty-third annual report of the board of trustees of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' Orphans Home, filed with Governor Nash, yesterday.

Dr. T. J. Savage has been treating some very distinguished patients lately at his Sanitarium. They came all the way from the state of Missouri.

The dead lock in the Court, house Commission which has for a long time existed over the question of the purchase of metal furniture, was broken last night when by a vote of five of the commission it was decided to make the purchase. The commission will probably not purchase more than $4,000 worth of the furniture.

COLD AND HOT BATHS

There has always been a question as to whether the cold or hot bath is the most beneficial. There is something undeniably exhilarating about a cold plunge, on the other hand, there is both relaxation and refreshment in a hot bath. At one time the cold morning bath was quite a fad, all doctors recommended it for healthy as well as sick friends. I think the fad continues today though it has not so many enthusiastic advocates.

Personally, I think that it takes so much physical energy to brave the shock of a cold plunge that more strength is given out than is gained by the later reaction, and I am assuming that there will be a reaction. When there isn't, of course, a cold plunge is no more healthy than getting one's feet wet or sitting in a draught. I think that even an enemy person will benefit by a cold shower following a hot bath for if the bath is very hot and the skin glowing from that, the shock of the cold water is a pleasant one and its effect can only be stimulating. But the room and the bath water must be hot enough to have made the skin already glowing and the bath must be followed by a brisk rub down with a very rough towel to continue this stimulation.

That is why the Turkish baths are so splendid for the weak as well as the strong. They make the body so glowingly hot that the cold shower is a delight. Fortunately Turkish baths are being built in more and more small towns so that greater numbers can know their benefit. For those who cannot enjoy the real one I would suggest a vapour bath as an excellent substitute. Put a cane-seated chair over a big bowl or tub of boiling hot water, seat yourself over this undressed and make a tent around yourself out of bath towels with blankets over them. This is to keep in the warmth and the steam. Even a few gallons of boiling water will make you perspire. Follow with a cold rinse.

Miss M. B.—Your pimples must come from internal disturbances. If you keep your system cleared and do not overeat or eat food that disagrees with you, your condition will clear up.

Rummy—Unless the lump on your nose is disfiguring, I should forget all about it and cultivate other possibilities. There are operations for correcting small defects in the shape of the nose, but most people prefer to leave the nose alone.

Bobby—For the lines under the eyes, feed the tissues with a nourishing cream, but if you are trying to avoid wearing the glasses, while all the time you are needing them, you will only be making matters worse. All of the days that I have so far tested are very drying. These require many applications and it takes several days for the skin to recover. They do, however, cleanse the pores and may have their uses at times.

DR. HALL FEARED HARM TO HIMSELF

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 18.—A witness was found by an International News Service reporter today who declared positively that the Rev. Edward W. Hall, slain rector of the church of St. John the Evangelist, had told him of having been threatened with bodily harm by a man named Henry. The witness also quoted Dr. Hall as saying that he had quarreled with his wife repeatedly over Mrs. Eleanor Mills, leader of the church choir whose body was found alongside of his, under the crab apple tree on the Phillips farm on the morning of Sept. 16.

The witness is Rev. Paul F. B. Hamborsky, formerly pastor of the Hungarian Reform Church of this city and for ten years an intimate acquaintance of the slain rector. Dr. Hamborsky said he had talked many times with Dr. Hall regarding that clergyman's relations with Mrs. Mills and his consequent troubles at home and his quotations from form confidential verbal exchanges from one of the most sensational chapters yet recorded in the double murder mystery that has been replete with sensations from its very inception.

Woman Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes This Offer

Cumberland, Md.—"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school, because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine. I always have an easy time at childbirth and what it did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she will write asking what it did for me."

—Mrs. John Heier, 53 Dilley St., Cumberland, Md.

PAID FOR.

There are more gorgeous cars than mine, with greater lustre do they shine, they pass in gaudy gangs; with silver doodads here and there I see them on the thoroughfare, but have no jealous pangs. For many cars are bought on time, and all the panoply sublime means creditors in view; and every time the owners drive some fourteen miles, or maybe five, there is a payment due. My ancient bus has rusty springs, and as along the road it swings it creaks and knocks and groans; but none can say, "So strike me blind, your payments are a month behind, now hand me forty bones." It is embarrassing to ride in pomp and circumstances and pride along the Great White Way, and find that creditors in hordes are climbing on your runningboards to bone you for their pay. Far better tool a rusty boat whose horn has a discordant note, whose cylinders all miss, than journey in a noble van you bought on the installment plan, for debt destroys your bliss. And what is true of motor cars is true of plug hats and cigars, of prunes and gingerbread; the greatest bliss a mortal knows is in his bosom when he owes no man a single red.

SEE MARKED INCREASE IN COUNTY CORN YIELD

The yields of the demonstrations of the control of corn root rot are being checked and weighed over the county. Indications are that the testing of seed corn by the Improved Rag Doll Method will give a marked increase in the corn yields in 1922, stated County agent Prince Saturday.

Three of the demonstrations have already been weighed up and the checking the tested seed corn against the untested seed corn, took place at the same time. The first work of this kind took place at the farm of Lester Smith in Spring Valley township, the test of seed corn there giving an increased yield of 7.09 bushels to the acre.

The second was held at the farm of L. O. Stover, in Miami township, the increased yield of the Stover farm amounting to 3 bushels to the acre. The third was held at the farm of Howard Faulkner, in Cassaracreek township, an increased yield of seven bushels to the acre being recorded.

"If the seven other demonstrations in Greene County show returns similar to those already secured, indications are that a large station for testing seed corn will be established in Greene County in the spring of 1923," said County Agent Prince. This will be decided by the officers of the Greene County Farm Bureau, and the members of the crops committee.

MOVING PICTURES FEATURE MEETING AT YELLOW SPRINGS

A splendid audience and marked enthusiasm featured the meeting of the Miami township Farm Bureau at Yellow Springs, Tuesday night. Moving pictures was a large drawing card for the meeting, the films including "Water by Wire," and a U. S. Department of Agriculture picture, "Culling the Poultry Flock," and "Great Dairy Sires and their Daughters."

With one exception all of the township committeemen were present at the meeting and gave the year's reports. The officers elected were W. M. Hardman, president, C. J. Mellinger, vice-president, and Earl Donovan, secretary.

HOG RATION BOOK RECEIVED LOCALLY AGENT ANNOUNCES

"About half the body of the average hog is composed of water. The other half is composed of ash or mineral matter, protein, carbohydrates and fats."

"Thus opening a recent bulletin on Swine Feeding, published by the Ohio State University, John W. Wulch, extension specialist in animal husbandry, stresses a conviction that water is a highly necessary part of ration for hogs. 'In fact,' he says, 'pigs may die sooner through lack of water than from lack of food.' Though this need is less apparent in winter, than in summer, it is none the less real, the specialist continues and many herds would do a great deal better if they were less often thirsty."

The bulletin proceeds from a discussion of what a hog is made of to the economy of relating food to this make-up. The ash or mineral part of the animal it is stated, must be made up from mineral food supplements, since grain is low in that material. Finally, the protein, carbohydrate and fat part of the hog must be built up by feeding of balanced ration, the writer proceeds.

"Generally in speaking of a balanced ration, consideration is given only to the relationship of the protein to the carbohydrates and fats. Carbohydrates and fats are grouped together because of their similarity in composition."

"If the proper amounts of these two groups exist in a ration to meet the requirements of the animal without excess or waste, then the ration is said to be balanced. As these requirements vary with the age of the animal, there can be no one balanced ration for all hogs."

Free bulletins have been received on this subject at the Greene County Farm Bureau office and may be had by Greene County farmers for the asking.

FEED CLOVER ON FARM

Feed clover hay on the farm rather than market it at the present low price, says C. W. Montgomery of the Department of Farm Management, Ohio Experiment Station.

A ton of clover hay when taken off the farm removes about 43 pounds of nitrogen, 8 pounds of phosphoric acid, 27 pounds of potash and 40 pounds of lime. Fully one-third the amount received for the hay must be paid out for fertilizers to make good this loss when the hay is sold.

The present farm price of hay in many places is as low as $7 a ton. There does not seem to be immediate relief from this low farm price because of the high cost of marketing. On an average baling will cost $3.50 hauling from the farm to the station $1.00, freight, $5.00, these with commission for selling, make the cost of preparation, transportation and selling something like $10.00 or $11.00 a ton.

POLAND CHINA LITTER WINS FIRST PLACE IN CONTEST IN INDIANA; GREENE COUNTY MAY FOLLOW EXAMPLE

This litter of eleven pure bred Poland China pigs won championship honors of all litters fed by 555 farmers in the Indiana feeding contest just finished. The litter weighed 3,040 pounds when officially weighed the day they were six months old. Average weight, 276 pounds, and the cost of production was less than five cents per pound.

The matter of starting a ton litter

contest in Greene County has been suggested to the three Breed Associations, the Big Type Poland China Association, the Duroc Association, and the Spotted Poland China Association, with the view of having them adopt this project as a part of their work for 1923. The members of the three associations are in competition and exhibit their litters at the Greene County Fair.

The litters would be weighed at birth, and certified, and at the end of 180 days, or six months, their weight will again be certified to the officers of the organization.

It is believed by County Agent Ford S. Prince that the associations will act favorably on the proposed action, which will add greatly to the work of the associations for the coming year.

GIRLS' CANNING CLUB "PUTS UP" MUCH FRUIT

Reports from the Girls' Food Club leaders over the county, just received at the Farm Bureau office, state that over 4,000 pints of fruit and vegetables were canned by the club members during the summer of 1922. As there are only 38 girls in the canning clubs this is an average of over 100 pints per club member.

The reports of the leaders state that many of the girls assumed the responsibility of canning for the entire family, while many others did a part of the family canning. Last summer, in addition to the canning over 50 bakings of bread were made by the seven members in the second year's class.

All of the canning by the girl club members was done by the cold-pack method. This is the simplest method of canning fruits and vegetables, and allows the material to retain its natural color and flavor, in canning and in addition the fruit and vegetables canned by this method will keep better than those canned by the old-fashioned method.

There were seven such canning clubs in Greene County the past summer, the leaders being, Mrs. C. J. Mellinger, Miami township, Mrs. N.

J. Kuriger Bath township; Mrs. C. L. Peterson, Sugaracreek Township; Mrs. Lawrence Lisle, Spring Valley; Mrs. E. Fox, Mrs. Charles Johannes and Miss Catherine Warner, Beaver Creek township and Miss Helen Smith, Xenia township.

OHIO IS ABLE TO FEED POPULATION WITHIN BORDERS

Given to estimate how Ohio would get along if thrown on her own agricultural resources, a class of 101 students in rural economics at the Ohio State University figure that, with necessary changes in crop schemes, the State could just about feed its present population, 5,759,394.

Led by C. G. McBride, professor of rural economics, they have gone to the census and to authoritative food consumption tables, and have found that Ohio produces more than it consumes of mutton and poultry products, and that there is a tremendous surplus of pork amounting to 415 million pounds a year. The consumption of cereals, potatoes, beef, veal and fruit in the State, however, exceeds home supply.

"Assuming that a strike disaster, or invasion would cut off the State from outside aid, what would we have to do to eat as we now except for grapefruit, coffee, and such other products as we cannot raise?" This was the problem put to the class. They figured it out this way: Reduce pork production 312 million pounds annually. This would still leave enough pork, and turn enough corn from hog to cattle feeding to take care of the beef deficit. It would also divert enough corn acreage to other crops to take care of the small grain, the potato and eventually the fruit deficit.

"It is only an estimate," remarks Prof. McBride, "but it is as exact as an estimate can be. If we could figure on a change in food consumption habits, the State could take care of a great many more than its present population."

LIME AND MANURE

Small applications of ground limestone and shed manure nearly doubled the yields of corn, wheat and clover in rotation on the Ohio Experiment Station test farm at Carpenter in the southeastern part of the state.

Finely ground limestone is applied on the wheat ground after plowing at the rate of 1000 pounds per acre. Untreated shed manure is plowed under for corn at the rate of 5 tons to the acre.

Seven Greene County Boys And Girls To Attend University "Club Week"

The program for Club Week at the Ohio State University, December 4-9, just completed, provides a wide variety of instruction and entertainment for the 500 farm youngsters who have won out in county farm and home projects and who are to be given this week at Columbus, as a prize.

Monday, Dec. 4, will largely be given over to establishing the county winners at the two down-town hotels, where rooms have been reserved for them, and to organizing groups for the week.

Tuesday will open a program of special instruction along lines of which the children have followed in their work. The Soils Department, for example, plans, a special display of chemical fire works indoors to accompany a talk on "The Wonders of the Soil." Girls in food club work will "weigh in," drink a lot of milk all week and "weigh out" at the end.

Wednesday morning will be taken up with tours of the campus and of Columbus. In the afternoon, at special exercises, State champion in 10 or more club projects will be announced and medals presented, Friday's feature will be an impromptu Stunt Night in which the youngsters will put on plays about their work.

W. O. Thompson, president of the University; Alfred Vivian, dean of agriculture; William L. Graves, professor of English; S. A. Roach, secretary of the State Bankers' Association; Muiray D. Lincoln, secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, and others will talk to the young farmers during the week. Gymnasium, play and recreation periods will be held daily.

Seven boys and girls club winners in the work of 1922 for Greene County will attend the "club week." They are, Wilma Bartdorff, first year Poultry Club; Bath township; Helen Finney, second year poultry club, Cedarville township; Alan Pierce, first year pig club Sugaracreek township; Carl Bailey, second year pig club, Jefferson township; Mary Ater, first year Food club, Beaver Creek township; Minnie Hardman, clothing club Miami township.

FALL AND WINTER PRUNING

Prune when the knife is sharp, that is at any time, is an old adage which should no longer be accepted without reserve, according to horticulturists of the Ohio Experiment Station, who say there is a time to prune and a time to spray.

The present tendency, based on careful observations and experiments, is to prune more moderately than was the practice a few years ago. Hardly fruits such as the apple, pear, and many of the plums, may be pruned during the late fall or early winter whenever the weather permits outside work. There is no difference in the healing of pruning wounds when the work is done in the fall, winter or spring, even in the most northern part of the United States.

When equally convenient, the Station authorities prefer pruning in the late winter and early spring but they say the dead and broken wood may be removed and all of the pruning of these fruits may be done now if desired.

Grapes and currants may be pruned with safety in the fall and winter, but it is better to wait until early spring to prune peach trees as they often suffer injury during the severe winter.

DISEASED POTATOES

Potatoes, because of the prevalence of disease, should be carefully sorted and properly stored in order to go through the winter in prime condition.

Botanists of the Experiment Station say, that all tubers showing discoloration or a slight depression at the stem end are infected as well as those showing more pronounced rot, and should not be stored.

Stem end rots have been prevalent the past season. These are caused by fungi whose growth and spread are favored by moisture and moderate temperature, conditions likely to be present in storage.

Potato production was given a great impetus this year through successful and concerted disease control and the wide-spread planting of certified seed. This resulted in a yield in excess of the demand which accounts for the low prices. It is important, therefore that only sound potatoes be stored.

WHEN FARMING PAYS

An Analysis of the Economic,
Political and Social Conditions Which Make Farming Profitable

By LEONARD P. BENNETT

The department of Agriculture is concerned as to the future of the livestock industry, and is seeking through publicity to increase the consumption of meat, which has decreased more than 25 pounds per person per year in the United States, according to statistics. Concurrently market experts are discussing whether a shortage of livestock impedes. The two implied attitude are a trifle contradictory.

No serious shortage of livestock exists at present and none is likely to develop if the tendency persists to shift emphasis from grain to livestock as the most profitable branch of agricultural production. New herds and flocks are in the making, nourished by cheap feed. When feed becomes more expensive, it will be entirely logical for emphasis to shift from livestock back to grain.

When cotton futures advance to 26 after vacillating long in the neighborhood of 21 and 23, and all grades of wool are in demand at rising prices, it is time for the ordinary mortal to sit up and take notice. Stocks of wool on September 30 totalled $25,000,000 pounds and are not excessive.

The injustice as to prices which the farmer has suffered is slowly being rectified. The rising tendency in prices extends to products of the farm, which must support and confirm any rising trend in prices. If prices were to rise and wages to remain where they were, farm prices had to rise. In all probability they will not reach a par with prices of manufactured goods, nor keep step on the upward march, but the sign is a hopeful one.

How the implement companies have sold their wares during the past two years in the face of an acute financial stringency if written would make an interesting and instructive chapter in industrial history. To begin with, it might be well to concede that implement companies have not sold their tractors, binders, huskers and so on ad infinitum in anything like normal volume. The market is undersold—in other words, implements have not been sold in sufficient numbers to meet the existing needs. Nevertheless the implement industry has shown a high quality of salesmanship to sell what it did in the face of a prostration more complete than that confronting almost any other industry.

The average farmer is emphatically "from Missouri." He has usually been duped during a credulous past and has made up his mind to let nothing slip past his guard and inflict a body blow. The implement dealer has shown the farmer what the implement would do and how to use it. If he failed, he lost his prospect. It has always been a case of actual demonstration.

The farmer of 1880 would have laughed at the idea of a machine that could replace his "husking bees" or cradle scythe. Today he takes even such an ingenious device as the beet harvester for granted.

The implement manufacturers have enabled agriculture to keep up with the growth of population and the

ANOTHER SERIES OF MEETINGS IS PLANNED

Williamson, Huston Cherry, W. J. Cherry and James Hawkins. The students are practicing judging for the intercollegiate contests.

The Greene County team which will represent Ohio from the boys' club is a big show, was to have accompanied the university students on their tour in company with County Agent Ford S. Prince, but Mr. Prince was not notified of the arrival of the students from Columbus in time to have his team accompany them.

SEE MARKED INCREASE IN COUNTY CORN YIELD

The yields of the demonstrations of the control of corn root rot are being checked and weighed over the county. — indications are that the testing of seed corn by the Improved Rag Doll Method will give a marked increase in the corn yields in 1922, stated County agent Prince Saturday.

Three of the demonstrations have already been weighed up and the checking the tested seed corn against the untested seed corn, took place at the same time. The first work of this kind took place at the farm of Lester Smith in Spring Valley township, the test of seed corn there giving an increased yield of 7.09 bushels to the acre.

The second was held at the farm of L. O. Stover, in Miami township, the increased yield of the Stover farm amounting to 3 bushels to the acre.

The third was held at the farm of Howard Faulkner, in Cearsacreek township, an increased yield of seven bushels to the acre being recorded.

"If the seven other demonstrations in Greene County show returns similar to those already secured, indications are that a large station for testing seed corn will be established in Greene County in the spring of 1923," said County Agent Prince. This will be decided by the officers of the Greene County Farm Bureau, and the members of the crops committee.

MOVING PICTURES FEATURE MEETING AT YELLOW SPRINGS

A splendid audience and marked enthusiasm featured the meeting of the Miami township Farm Bureau at Yellow Springs, Tuesday night. Moving pictures was a large drawing card for the meeting, the films including "Water by Wire," and a U. S. Department of Agriculture picture, "Culling the Poultry Flock," and "Great Dairy Sires and their Daughters."

With one exception all of the township committeemen were present at the meeting and gave the year's reports. The officers elected were: W. M. Hardman, president, C. J. Mellinger, vice-president, and Earl Donovan, secretary.

The New Jasper township Farm Bureau meeting was held Wednesday night, the meeting being addressed by W. B. Bryson, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau, W. H. Smith, secretary of the Greene County Livestock Shipping Association, and County Agent Ford S. Prince.

HOG RATION BOOK RECEIVED LOCALLY AGENT ANNOUNCES

"About half the body of the average hog is composed of water. The other half is composed of ash or mineral matter, protein, carbohydrates and fats."

Thus opening a recent bulletin on Swine Feeding, published by the Ohio State University, John W. Wulch, extension specialist in animal husbandry, stresses a conviction that water is a highly necessary part of ration for hogs. "In fact," he says, "pigs may die sooner through lack of water than from lack of food."

Though this need is less apparent in winter, than in summer, it is none the less real, the specialist continues and many herds would do a great deal better if they were less often thirsty.

The bulletin proceeds from a discussion of what a hog is made of to the economy of relating food to this make-up. The ash or mineral part of the animal it is stated, must be made up from mineral food supplements, since grain is low in that material.

Finally, the protein, carbohydrate and fat part of the hog must be built up by feeding of balanced ration, the writer proceeds.

"Generally in speaking of a balanced ration, consideration is given only to the relationship of the protein to the carbohydrates and fats. Carbohydrates and fats are grouped together because of their similarity in composition.

"If the proper amounts of these two groups exist in a ration to meet the requirements of the animal without excess or waste, then the ration is said to be balanced. As these requirements vary with the age of the animal, there can be no one balanced ration for all hogs.

Free bulletins have been received on this subject at the Greene County Farm Bureau office and may be had by Greene County farmers for the asking.

FEED CLOVER ON FARM WHERE PRICE IS LOW

Feed clover hay on the farm rather than market it at the present low price, says C. W. Montgomery of the Department of Farm Management, Ohio Experiment Station.

A ton of clover hay when taken off the farm removes about 43 pounds of nitrogen, 8 pounds of phosphoric acid, 27 pounds of potash and 40 pounds of lime. Fully one-third the amount received for the hay must be paid out for fertilizers to make good this loss when the hay is sold.

The present farm price of hay in many places is as low as $7 a ton. There does not seem to be immediate relief from this low farm price because of the high cost of marketing. On an average baling will cost $3.50 hauling from the farm to the station $1.00, freight, $5.00, these with commission for selling, make the cost of preparation, transportation and selling something like $10.00 or $11.00 a ton.

FARM BOOKKEEPING COURSES TAKE BIG PART IN SCHOOLS

It used to be that rural schools taught the kind of bookkeeping that brought farmer boys in the end to sit on high stools in the city. But that is changing pretty rapidly.

During the year just concluded, rural economic specialists of the Ohio State University have gone before county groups of rural school teachers in 22 Ohio counties to teach farm bookkeeping. These teachers in their turn have given courses in the subject to their eighth grades, and it appears that the youngsters have often carried the lessons home. Quite often now the rural economics department at the University gets requests for standard farm account books from farmers in counties where the schools are using such books.

Demand for this instruction has tripled since last year, when the work was carried into only eight counties, says R. F. Taber and C. B. Arnold, the extension professors who taught the teachers.

With the co-operation of H. C. Aultman, county superintendent of schools, teachers and Farm Bureau members, over 700 Farm accounting books were introduced in Greene County in January 1922, throughout the schools, in the seventh and eighth grades.

Greene County is one of the 22 counties in the state carrying on the project in the rural schools.

AUTOMOBILE STICKERS TO POPULARIZE PLAN

Twenty-five thousand stickers, to be pasted on auto windshields, on letters, on barn doors, or up by the telephone are being printed by the Soils Department of the Ohio State University at a first step toward popularizing among farmers the "Ohio Standard Dozen" fertilizer analysis, which 12 analyses the soil scientists say, are enough to meet all soil and crop needs of the State.

No fertilizer on the list adds up to less than 16 per cent total plant food. Standardization on the 12 high-analysis formulas, it is asserted, will make the farmer get more for his money, with less freight to pay and less weight to handle.

This subject is in line with the campaign staged by the Greene County Farm Bureau last March, when the organization urged the farmers to use nothing but high grade fertilizer, containing 16 per cent available nutrients.

One agent in whose community one of these meetings was held reported that the County Farm Bureau headquarters that not a ton of fertilizer had been sold this year containing less than 16 per cent of available nutrients whereas in previous years 90 per cent of the mixed goods carried less available nutrients than this amount.

ELECT OFFICERS IN JEFFERSON

James Hite was elected president. Howard Miller, vice president; and N. A. Kirch, secretary of the Jefferson township Farm Bureau, at the annual meeting of the organization held at Bowersville, Thursday night.

The meeting was one of the enthusiastic series being held over the county, the program including reports of the committees on the progress of the year's work, Frank Wardlow, of Sugar Creek, reporting on the progress of the dairy work and County Agent Ford S. Prince discussing the work of the County Farm Bureau as a whole.

After the talks a program of moving pictures was enjoyed, three interesting reels of agricultural films being shown.

POLAND CHINA LITTER WINS FIRST PLACE IN CONTEST IN INDIANA; GREENE COUNTY MAY FOLLOW EXAMPLE

This litter of eleven pure bred Poland China pigs won championship honors of all Litters fed by 555 farmers in the Indiana feeding contest just finished. The litter weighed 3,049 pounds when officially weighed the day they were six months old. Average weight, 276 pounds, and the cost of production was less than five cents per pound.

The matter of starting a ton litter

contest in Greene County has been suggested to the three Breed Associations, the Big Type Poland China Association, the Duroc Association, and the Spotted Poland China Association, with the view of having them adopt this project as a part of their work for 1923. The members of the three associations are in competition and exhibit their litters at the Greene County Fair.

The litters would be weighed at birth, and certified, and at the end of 180 days, or six months, their weight will again be certified to the officers of the organization.

It is believed by County Agent Ford S. Prince that the associations will act favorably on the proposed action, which will add greatly to the work of the associations for the coming year.

Seven Greene County Boys And Girls To Attend University "Club Week"

The program for Club Week at the Ohio State University, December 4-9, just completed, provides a wide variety of instruction and entertainment for the 500 farm youngsters who have won out in county farm and home projects and who are to be given this week at Columbus, as a prize.

Monday, Dec. 4, will largely be given over to establishing the county winners at the two down-town hotels, where rooms have been reserved for them, and to organizing groups for the week.

Tuesday will open a program of special instruction along lines of which the children have followed in their work. The Soils Department, for example, plans, a special display of chemical fire works indoors to accompany a talk on "The Wonders of the Soil." Girls in food club work will "weigh in," drink a lot of milk all week and "weigh out" at the end.

Wednesday morning will be taken up with tours of the campus and of Columbus. In the afternoon, at special exercises, State champion in 10 or more club projects will be announced and medals presented, Friday's feature will be an impromptu Stunt Night in which the youngsters will put on plays about their work.

W. O. Thompson, president of the University; Alfred Vivian, dean of agriculture; William L. Graves, professor of English; S. A. Roach, secretary of the State Bankers' Association; Murray D. Lincoln, secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, and others will talk to the young farmers during the week. Gymnasium, play and recreation periods will be held daily.

Seven boys and girls club winners in the work of 1922 for Greene County will attend the "club week." They are, Wilma Bartdorff, first year poultry club; Bath township; Helen Finney, second year poultry club, Cedarville township; Alan Pierce, first year pig club Sugar Creek township; Carl Bailey, second year pig club, Jefferson township; Mary Ater, first year Food club, Beavercreek township; Minnie Hardman, clothing club, Miami township.

FALL AND WINTER PRUNING

Prune when the knife is sharp. That is at any time, is an old adage which should no longer be accepted without reserve, according to horticulturists of the Ohio Experiment Station, who say there is a time to prune and a time to spray.

The present tendency, based on careful observations and experiments, is to prune more moderately than was the practice a few years ago.

Hardy fruits such as the apple, pear, and many of the plums, may be pruned during the late fall or early winter whenever the weather permits outside work. There is no difference in the healing of pruning wounds when the work is done in the fall, winter or spring, even in the most northern part of the United States.

When equally convenient, the Station authorities prefer pruning in the late winter and early spring, but they say the dead and broken wood may be removed and all of the pruning of these fruits may be done now if desired.

Grapes and currants may be pruned with safety in the fall and winter, but it is better to wait until early spring to prune peach trees as they often suffer injury during the severe winter.

DISEASED POTATOES MAY ROT IN STORAGE

Potatoes, because of the prevalence of disease, should be carefully sorted and properly stored in order to go through the winter in prime condition.

Botanists of the Experiment Station say, that all tubers showing discoloration or a slight depression at the stem end are infected as well as those showing more pronounced rot, and should not be stored.

Stem end rots have been prevalent the past season. These are caused by fungi whose growth and spread are favored by moisture and moderate temperature, conditions likely to be present in storage.

Potato production was given a great impetus this year through successful and concerted disease control and the wide-spread planting of certified seed. This resulted in a yield in excess of the demand which accounts for the low prices. It is important, therefore that only sound potatoes be stored.

GIRLS' CANNING CLUB "PUTS UP" MUCH FRUIT

Reports from the Girls' Food Club leaders over the county, just received at the Farm Bureau office, state that over 4,000 pints of fruit and vegetables were canned by the club members during the summer of 1922. As there are only 38 girls in the canning clubs this is an average of over 100 pints per club member.

The reports of the leaders state that many of the girls assumed the responsibility of canning for the entire family, while many others did a part of the family canning. Last summer, in addition to the canning over 50 bakings of bread were made by the seven members in the second year's class.

All of the canning by the girl club members was done by the cold-pack method. This is the simplest method of canning fruits and vegetables, and allows the material to retain its natural color and flavor, in canning and in addition the fruit and vegetables canned by this method will keep better than those canned by the old-fashioned method.

There were seven such canning clubs in Greene County the past summer, the leaders being, Mrs. C. J. Mellinger, Miami township, Mrs. N.

J. Kuriger Bath township; Mrs. C. L. Peterson, Sugar Creek Township; Mrs. Lawrence Lisle, Spring Valley; Mrs. E. Fox, Mrs. Charles Johannes and Miss Catherine Warner, Beavercreek township and Miss Helen Smith, Xenia township.

OHIO IS ABLE TO FEED POPULATION WITHIN BORDERS

Given to estimate how Ohio would get along if thrown on her own agricultural resources, a class of 101 students in rural economics at the Ohio State University figure that, with necessary changes in crop schemes, the State could just about feed its present population, 5,759,394.

Led by C. G. McBride, professor of rural economics, they have gone to the census and to authoritative food consumption tables, and have found that Ohio produces more than it consumes of mutton and poultry products, and that there is a tremendous surplus of pork amounting to 415 million pounds a year. The consumption of cereals, potatoes, beef, veal and fruit in the State, however, exceeds home supply.

"Assuming that a strike, disaster, or invasion would cut off the State from outside aid, what would we have to do to eat as we do now except for grapefruit, coffee, and such other products as we cannot raise?" This was the problem put to the class.

They figured it out this way: Reduce pork production 312 million pounds annually. This would still leave enough pork, and turn enough corn from hog to cattle feeding to take care of the beef deficit. It would also divert enough corn acreage to other crops to take care of the small grain, the potato and eventually the fruit deficit.

"It is only an estimate," remarks Prof. McBride, "but it is as exact as an estimate can be. If we could figure on a change in food consumption habits, the State could take care of a great many more than its present population."

LIME AND MANURE DOUBLE CROP YIELD

Small applications of ground limestone and shed manure nearly doubled the yields of corn, wheat and clover in rotation on the Ohio Experiment Station test farm at Carpenter in the southeastern part of the state.

Finely ground limestone is applied on the wheat ground after plowing at the rate of 1000 pounds per acre. Untreated shed manure is plowed under for corn at the rate of 5 tons to the acre.

UNIVERSITY STOCK JUDGING TEAM SEES CONDITIONS HERE

The stock judging team of the Agricultural College of Ohio State University, which will participate in the intercollegiate stock judging contests at the International Livestock Show, at Chicago December 2 to 9, spent Friday in Greene County.

The students came here in charge of Prof. D. J. Kays, of the animal husbandry department of the state university, and during the day devoted most of their attention to sheep on the farms of J. C. Williamson, Huston Cherry, W. J. Cherry and James Hawkins. The students are practicing judging for the intercollegiate contests.

The Greene County team which will represent Ohio from the boys' clubs a ho big show, was to have accompanied the university students on their tour in company with County Agent Ford S. Prince, but Mr. Prince was not notified of the arrival of the students from Columbus in time to have his team accompany them.

CEDARVILLE HIGH BEATS JAMESTOWN

Jamestown High School may boast the basketball championship of the county, but when that school also attempts to corner the football championship they have bitten off a little more than they can masticate thoroughly, as demonstrated Friday at Cedarville when the Cedarville high eleven defeated Jamestown 64 to 0.

It was probably the first football game ever played between the two teams, at least the first for many years, and may mark the entrance of football as one of the high school sports in the smaller high schools of the county. In Champaign County, there are several teams in the smaller towns outside Urbana that annually give larger schools in that section a real tussle for grid honors.

Although the ball changes hands often Friday, it was in Jamestown's territory most of the time, while the Cedarville gridders apparently ran at will through their opponents for the overwhelming score piled up. Jamestown threatened but once, when Ferguson missed a drop-kick from the 25 yard line. The immense score piled up took the pep out of Jamestown in the second half. Johnson, left guard on the Cedarville eleven, furnished the only thrill of the pastime when he caught the leather on the kick-off and ran 80 yards for a touchdown. Early Ferguson and Tolland showed up best for Jamestown while Acton, Bratton and Townsley starred for Cedarville. The lineup:

Cedarville (64) Jamestown (0)
Sterrett.....LE..... Weimer
Nagley.....LT..... Carter
Johnson.....LG..... Gordon
Shepherd.....C..... Ohnsen
Mills.....RG..... Sheeley
Wisecup.....RT..... Moorman
Smith (c).....RE..... Rockhold
Townsley.....QB..... Earley (c)
Acton.....LHB..... Arnold
Bratton.....RHB..... Tolland
Little.....FB..... Ferguson

Touchdowns: Bratton 3; Townsley 2; Acton 2; Johnson, Little and Sterrett. Cedarville added two points after touchdown by forward passes, and contributed two more points when a Jamestown man was thrown for a safety. Referee: Richards, Pittsburg; Umpire: Taylor, Cedarville; Headlinesman: Peters, Cedarville; Timer: Warner, Ohio Wesleyan.

SAFETY CODE COMPILED FOR PHONE EMPLOYES

A safety code to help accidents has been compiled through the combined efforts of several employees of the plant department of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company.

Printed in handbook form and containing many illustrations of the right and wrong way of doing the hundreds of jobs which telephone plant men are called upon to perform, the safety code has met with the approval of leaders in the safety first movement.

"The safety code is one phase of our intensive work to prevent accidents and it is the combined result of study and thought on the part of all employees of the Plant Department of the company," said H. W. Cleaver, Manager of the Bell Exchange here.

The Ohio Bell code is so arranged that a telephone employee can carry it at all times. Instructions in the proper method of performing all jobs in the way which experience has shown will prevent accidents are given. It is the belief of employees that it will be a valuable supplement to their safety first aid work.

PROSECUTOR'S NEW LIQUOR SQUAD GETS THREE VIOLATORS

Three arrests for violations of the prohibition laws are the first results of a new liquor squad, working out of the office of Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson.

Frank Dale, who lives three miles from Xenia, just off the Upper Bellbrook pike, is confined in the lockup at Police Headquarters, pending payment of a fine of $250 and costs imposed in the court of Justice of the Peace J. E. Jones, Saturday morning for possessing property to be used in manufacturing liquor.

Dale was arrested by Mrs. Winnifred Mason, constable in Justice Jones' Court, Special Officer George Spencer and Patrolman Fred Jones of the Police Department Friday night, after a search warrant had been provided by Prosecutor Williamson. When the officers entered the house, a hired hand ran from the cellar after turning over several barrels of a mixture including corn, rye, sorghum molasses and other ingredients.

Hurrying into the cellar, Officer Spencer slipped on the top step and landed in the middle of the mixture which covered the cellar floor six inches deep. Mrs. Mason, following him, stepped ankle deep into the mixture, but enough evidence was obtained against Dale so that he entered a plea of guilty when arraigned on the charge Saturday morning.

Oliver Warrick, Columbus pike, near the city limits, was fined $200 and costs by Justice of the Peace Jones Friday afternoon after he had pled guilty to possessing liquor. He was arrested in a raid conducted by the liquor squad, including Mrs. Mason, George Spencer and Patrolman Stephens, Jones and Matthews Friday afternoon.

Alvin Mussetter, was fined $100 and costs on each of two charges after he had been arrested on a warrant sworn in Squire Jones' Court. Mussetter is a tenant on the Earl McClellan farm, on the Upper Bellbrook pike. A still and several gallons of corn liquor were confiscated by the officers. Mussetter entered guilty pleas and was fined $100 and costs for manufacturing and $100 and costs for possessing liquor.

OVER TWO HUNDRED ATTEND COMMUNITY SUPPER ON FRIDAY

The spirit of community interest that has characterized each of the social affairs, which have been centered at the Orient Hill School Building, predominated when two hundred residents of the neighborhood and their friends were entertained by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school, at a community supper Friday evening at the school auditorium.

The lack of formality that was evident during the entire evening, began with the reception of the guests by the members of the organization sponsoring the affair, continuing during the delicious supper. Long tables were arranged in attractive fashion throughout the length of a large room of the building at which the guests were seated. Many delicacies, the preparation of the members of the association, and residents of the community were enjoyed.

The supper was followed by a program of impromptu speeches in charge of Mr. C. W. Whitmer as toastmaster. Mr. Whitmer gave a short speech, introducing the speakers of the evening. Those responding were Mrs. Howard Lighthouse, president of the Orient Hill P. T. A.; Supt. of City Schools, C. A. Waltz; Mrs. Frank Hurley; Mrs. Marshall L. Wolf and Mr. Clark Hutchison.

In opening the program Mr. Whitmer gave a short talk, dealing with the sentiment he felt upon being a resident of the community, giving instances illustrating the high value of the spirit of the neighborhood. Mrs. Lighthouse gave the address of welcome, urging the guests to support the work of the Parent-Teacher Association. Supt. Waltz urged the support of the public in the play "The Microbe of Love," being sponsored by the organization, to be staged Nov. 22 and 24 the proceeds of which will go toward the new project of the organization, the daily lunches in the schools.

Mrs. Hurley chose for her topic, "Looking Backward," giving the history of the Orient Hill Mother's Circle, and the growth of charitable activities in the community and throughout the city.

A word picture of the result of the Parents-Teacher Association, resembling that obtained by Aladdin's Lamp, was graphically told by Mrs. M. L. Wolf, president of the Federated Associations of Xenia. The perfect city, the perfect parents and the perfect child in years to come, is seen by Mrs. Wolf and her co-workers as the result of the projects of the home school association.

An interesting short history of the growth of the community since the days of '50, was given by Mr. Clark Hutchison, venerable Xenian, who favored the lines of work adopted by the P. T. A., as leading to health and happiness.

The program of the evening, also included a musical program by the Misses Helen Hurley and Dorothy Clark, and Little Miss Lois McCoy in "The Circus Clown," accompanied by Miss LaMar.

An informal social time was spent following the supper.

X. H. S. NOTES

Mr. Pendry, principal of the High School, called an assembly last Thursday morning for the purpose of making several announcements to the student body. He urged punctuality and said, as cases of tardiness were too numerous, that drastic measures would have to be adopted. A student, living within any reasonable distance of the school building, who is tardy, will not be admitted to classes for the morning. Since the enforcement of this measure no cases of tardiness have been reported.

Mr. Pendry also spoke of the slowness of pupils in going from class to class, and urged promptness. He also mentioned the matter of grades, and as the standard of grading for the next quarter will be considerably higher than that of the last quarter, urged that students apply themselves more diligently for the next two months.

Rev. Middleton of the First Reformed Church of this city, was the speaker at an Armistice Day assembly called last Friday morning. He gave a brief resume of European History during the past hundred years, culminating in the recent World War and explained the economic problems in which the United States is now involved.

Later Friday morning a pep assembly was held, Coach Burner had charge of the assembly and, with the aid of about a dozen volunteer leaders succeeded in obtaining more organized cheering.

On Monday morning a senior class meeting was called by President Bob Hallattyne. The question of a dance to be held Friday night for the Washington High School students, to be sponsored by the seniors was put before the class. The suggestion was favorably received and acted upon.

The only other business that came before the meeting was the appointment of a Commencement invitation committee.

Tuesday morning, Rev. Julian A. Santos addressed the student body. Rev. Santos is a student at Ohio Wesleyan University. He spoke on the subject of his native land, Philippine Islands. After his interesting address he sang "America" in his native tongue.

A junior class meeting was held Wednesday morning. The purpose of the meeting was the selecting of class jewelry. Four samples chosen by a special jewelry committee were put before the class and a vote taken.

GREATEST BLOW FOR 200 YEARS

By SIR HALL CAINE

FAMOUS BRITISH NOVELIST

London, Nov. 18.—Return of a reactionary conservative government in Great Britain with legislative powers transferred from the House of Commons to the House of Lords is the greatest blow to progress we have received in 200 years.

If it had not been for the United States, happy errors of labor and the grossly unscrupulous misrepresentation of labor's policy by all the opposing parties the labor party would have swept the country from end to end.

"I do not hesitate to say that from the dissolution of the last parliament to the election the political campaign was the most dishonorable I have ever known in all my seventy years."

Ralph Caine, son of Sir Hall Caine, was elected to commons from Dorsetshire on the Tory ticket.

Chapters From A Woman's Life

BY JANE PHELPS

MRS. PAGE IS ILL CHAPTER 30

Walter had sent out his invitations for the costume party at the studio. He was going to dress as a famous painter of olden times, and I had decided to go as a gypsy. Grace was to be a Spanish girl, and we shopped together for our costumes.

"Let me see your list," I said to Walter after he had made it out, often stopping to discuss this or that one with me.

"I see you have invited your model," I remarked.

"Yes, leaving her out would have seemed a slight," he replied looking a bit uncomfortable. His mother was listening.

"It was not necessary, Walter, and I consider it bad taste. You near should mix business and pleasure, it doesn't do."

Walter made no reply, and I asked him:

"Do you know what she is to wear?"

"She spoke of going as Night or Morn, I've forgotten which. She was anxious not to wear any costume that might also be worn by another."

"Naturally," I returned.

My costume delighted me when it came home, and when I tried it on for Walter he raved as was his way.

"I'll have to sketch you in that rig, Doreen," he declared. "You make a fine Roman."

I had some strain for face and hands, and had used it so I could be sure it was right. Then I made Walter put on his knee breeches, his velvet coat with the lace ruffles, and so on. We had a gala evening. Even Mrs. Page unbent enough to say the costumes were successful.

I really looked forward to the party, with a great deal of anticipation. I had been out very little since Mrs. Page came, save when she was with me, and I would enjoy the relief her absence, her criticisms would give me.

Then, on the very afternoon of the day of the party, she was taken ill and quite violently. There was no use thinking I could leave her so I sent Walter off alone, a bit tearfully I admit.

His mother was not easy to care for, was rather querulous. She kept me running, wanting something, then when I brought it, decided to have something different. She was fussing over the dog, what would become of her pet if anything happened to her.

When I heard the doorbell I welcomed the interruption.

It was Grace Harter.

"Walt told me! Pity she couldn't have waited until after the party to get sick," she said in a stage whisper. "I've come for your costume, Doreen. That Helen Ralstrom had the nerve to wear a gypsy costume after Walt told her you were to wear one. But hers is a cheap affair, not nearly as handsome as yours. I'm going to wear yours! It'll knock her silly."

As long as I couldn't go it made no difference to me whether Grace wore a Roman in my costume, or a Spanish girl in her own. I gave it to her and she dressed in my room. When she was ready to leave she called me and I gasped with delight. She was wonderful! Her jet black hair, banded with beads of different colors made her look every whit the Roman. She had stained her face, arms and neck with henna, and had adapted some of the bright beads and gawags of her Spanish costume to enhance the one she now wore.

"I'll show that girl a real gypsy," she declared as she left.

I could help wondering if it were all for my sake she was so anxious to outshine Helen? As I sat with Mrs. Page in the dark room (she wouldn't have a light) many of my doubts of Grace returned, my feeling of dislike. She was too free with Walter.

It was nearly morning when he came in and we didn't try to talk, save in whispers, because his mother had only just fallen into an uneasy sleep.

"It was a shame you couldn't go," he said. "We had a wonderful time, tell you all about it in the morning."

But when morning came his mother was not so well and he hurried off to fetch the doctor in his roadster. It was not until late afternoon that

I heard anything of the party. Then Grace came in and told me all about it.

Mrs. Page was much better, the doctor had been in again about noon, and said he wouldn't come again. A bad attack of indigestion, he called it. So I did not feel at all conscience stricken to leave her alone for a little to hear about the party.

OVER TWO HUNDRED ATTEND COMMUNITY SUPPER ON FRIDAY

The spirit of community interest that has characterized each of the social affairs, which have been centered at the Orient Hill School Building, predominated when two hundred residents of the neighborhood and their friends were entertained by the Parent-Teacher Association of the School, at a community supper Friday evening at the school auditorium.

The lack of formality that was evident during the entire evening, began with the reception of the guests by the members of the organization sponsoring the affair, continuing during the delicious supper. Long tables were arranged in attractive fashion throughout the length of a large room of the building at which the guests were seated. Many delicacies, the preparation of the members of the association, and residents of the community were enjoyed.

The supper was followed by a program of impromptu speeches in charge of Mr. C. W. Whitmer as toastmaster. Mr. Whitmer gave a short speech, introducing the speakers of the evening. Lighthiser, president of the Orient Hill P. T. A.; Supt. of City Schools, C. A. Waltz; Mrs. Frank Hurley; Mrs. Marshall L. Wolf and Mr. Clark Hutchison.

In opening the program Mr. Whitmer gave a short talk, dealing with the sentiment he felt upon being a resident of the community, giving instances illustrating the high value of the spirit of the neighborhood. Mrs. Lighthiser gave the address of welcome, urging the guests to support the work of the Parent-Teacher Association, Supt. Waltz urged the support of the public in the play "The Microbe of Love," being sponsored by the organization, to be staged Nov. 22 and 24 the proceeds of which will go toward the new project of the organization, the daily lunches in the schools.

Mrs. Hurley chose for her topic, "Looking Backward," giving the history of the Orient Hill Mother's Circle, and the growth of charitable activities in the community and throughout the city.

A word picture of the result of the Parents-Teacher Association, resembling that obtained by Aladdin's Lamp, was graphically told by Mrs. M. L. Wolf, president of the Federated Associations of Xenia. The perfect child, in years to come, is seen by Mrs. Wolf and her co-workers as the result of the projects of the home school association.

An interesting short history of the growth of the community since the days of '50, was given by Mr. Clark Hutchison, venerable Xenian, who favored the lines of work adopted by the P. T. A., as leading to health and happiness.

The program of the evening, also included a musical program by the Misses Helen Hurley and Dorothy Clark, and Little Miss Lois McCoy in "The Circus Clown," accompanied by Miss LaMar.

An informal social time was spent following the supper.

X. H. S. NOTES

Mr. Pendry, principal of the High School, called an assembly last Thursday morning for the purpose of making several announcements to the student body. He urged punctuality and said, as cases of tardiness for the first eight weeks of school were too numerous, that drastic measures would have to be adopted. A student, living within any reasonable distance of the school building, who is tardy, will not be admitted to classes for the morning. Since the enforcement of this measure no cases of tardiness have been reported.

Mr. Pendry also spoke of the slowness of pupils in going from class to class, and urged promptness. He also mentioned the matter of grades, and as the standard of grading for the next quarter will be considerably higher than that of the last quarter, urged that students apply themselves more diligently for the next two months.

Rev. Middleton of the First Reformed Church of this city, was the speaker at an Armistice Day assembly called last Friday morning. He gave a brief resume of European History during the past hundred years, culminating in the recent World War and explained the economic problems in which the United States is now involved.

Later Friday morning a pep assembly was held. Coach Burgner had charge of the assembly and, with the aid of about a dozen volunteer leaders succeeded in obtaining more organized cheering.

On Monday morning a senior class meeting was called by President Bob Hallantyne. The question of a dance to be held Friday night for the Washington High School students, to be sponsored by the seniors was put before the class. The suggestion was favorably received and acted upon.

The only other business that came before the meeting was the appointment of a Commencement invitation committee.

Tuesday morning, Rev. Julian A. Santos addressed the student body. Rev. Santos is a student at Ohio Wesleyan University. He spoke on the subject of his native land, Philippine Islands. After his interesting address he sang "America" in his native tongue.

A junior class meeting was held Wednesday morning. The purpose of the meeting was the selecting of class jewelry. Four samples chosen by a special jewelry committee were put before the class and a vote taken.

The result of the vote has not been announced. The Juniors also decided to take charge of the selling of refreshments at the dance Friday night and a special committee was appointed to make arrangements for the affair.

GREATEST BLOW FOR 200 YEARS

By SIR HALL CAINE

FAMOUS BRITISH NOVELIST

London, Nov. 18.—Return of a reactionary conservative government in Great Britain with legislative powers transferred from the House of Commons to the House of Lords is the greatest blow to progress we have received in 200 years.

If it had not been for the United States, happy errors of labor and the grossly unscrupulous misrepresentation of labor's policy by all the opposing parties the labor party would have swept the country from end to end.

"I do not hesitate to say that from the dissolution of the last parliament to the election the political campaign was the most dishonorable I have ever known in all my seventy years."

Ralph Caine, son of Sir Hall Caine, was elected to commons from Dorsetshire on the Tory ticket.

Chapters From A Woman's Life

BY JANE PHELPS

MRS. PAGE IS ILL CHAPTER 30

Walter had sent out his invitations for the costume party at the studio. He was going to dress as a famous painter of old times, and I had decided to go as a gypsy. Grace was to be a Spanish girl, and we shopped together for our costumes.

"Let me see your list," I said to Walter after he had made it out, then stopping to discuss this or that one with me.

"I see you have invited your model," I remarked.

"Yes, leaving her out would have seemed a slight," he replied looking a bit uncomfortable. His mother was listening.

"It was not necessary, Walter, and I consider it bad taste. You never should mix business and pleasure, it doesn't do."

Walter made no reply, and I asked him:

"Do you know what she is to wear?"

"She spoke of going as Night or Morn, I've forgotten which. She was anxious, not to wear any costume that might also be worn by another."

"Naturally," I returned.

My costume delighted me when it came home, and when I tried it on for Walter he raved as was his way.

"I'll have to sketch you in that rig, Doreen!" he declared. "You make a fine Romany."

I had some strain for face and hands, and had used it so I could be sure it was right. Then I made Walter put on his knee breeches, his velvet coat with the lace ruffles, and so on. We had a gala evening. Even Mrs. Page unbent enough to say the costumes were successful.

I really looked forward to the party, with a great deal of anticipation. I had been out very little since Mrs. Page came, save when she was with me, and I would enjoy the relief her absence, her criticisms would give me.

Then, on the very afternoon of the day of the party, she was taken ill and quite violently. There was no use thinking I could leave her so I sent Walter off alone, a bit tearfully I admit.

His mother was not easy to care for, was rather querulous. She kept me running, wanting something, then when I brought it, decided to have something different. She was fussing over the dog, what would become of her pet if anything happened to her.

When I heard the doorbell I welcomed the interruption.

It was Grace Hartor.

"Walt told me! Pity she couldn't have waited until after the party to get sick," she said in a stage whisper.

"I've come for your costume, Doreen. That Helen Ralstrom had the nerve to wear a gypsy costume after Walt told her you were to wear one. But hers is a cheap affair, not nearly as handsome as yours. I'm going to wear yours! It'll knock her silly."

As long as I couldn't go it made no difference to me whether Grace wore a Romany in my costume, or a Spanish girl in her own. I gave it to her and she dressed in my room. When she was ready to leave she called me and I gasped with delight. She was wonderful! Her jet black hair, hand-dyed with beads of different colors made her look every whit the Romany. She had stained her face, arms and neck.

"Naturally," I returned.

"I'll show that girl a real gypsy!" she declared as she left.

I could help wondering if it were all for my sake she was so anxious to outshine Helen? As I sat with Mrs. Page in the dark room (she wouldn't have a light) many of my doubts of Grace returned, my feeling of dislike. She was too free with Walter.

It was nearly morning when he came in and we didn't try to talk, save in whispers, because his mother had only just fallen into an uneasy sleep.

"It was a shame you couldn't go," he said. "We had a wonderful time, tell you all about it in the morning."

But when morning came his mother was not so well and he hurried off to fetch the doctor in his roadster. It was not until late afternoon that

I heard anything of the party. Then Grace came in and told me all about it.

Mrs. Page was much better, the doctor had been in again about noon, and said he wouldn't come again. A bad attack of indigestion, he called it. So I did not feel at all conscience stricken to leave her alone for a little to hear about the party.
